MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICANS

The State Nominating Convention at Worcester Yesterday.

A Campaign Address by Congressman Dawes.

THE NOMINATIONS.

Talbot for Governor—Knight for Lieutenant Governor.

WORCESTER, Oct. 7, 1874.

At a quarter of twelve o'clock GEORGE B. LORING called the Convention to order, and read the call under which delegates were chosen.

Mr. WILLIAMS, of Worcester, moved that Mr. Loring be chosen temporary Chairman. Carried.

Mr. LORING, on taking the chair, said:—

GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION—I am much obliged to you for this courtesy, and I beg to remind you that you are here as the representatives of the powerful republican party of the State of Massachusetts—a party powerful in its traditions, powerful in its State, powerful in its men. I trust that the proceedings of this day will tend to confirm that power in the Commonwealth and in the nation.

On motion, members of Congress and of the State Committee were invited to seats.

On motion of Mr. RICE, of Worcester, James B. Joslyn, of Hudson, was made temporary Secretary.

Mr. JOSLYN declined, and named George S. Merrill, who was elected.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES.

On motion, it was ordered that committees be appointed on permanent organization, credentials and resolutions.

The CHAIR named the committees:—Arthur Biscoe, of Westboro, as chairman of that on permanent organization; Hartley Williams, of credentials, and M. F. Dickinson, Jr., of Boston, of resolutions.

The committees on Organization and Credentials were directed to meet at once in the anterooms.

Mr. SWIFT, of Boston, moved that all resolutions of principle offered to this Convention be referred without debate, to the Committee on Resolutions.

Mr. BISCOE, from the Organization Committee reported the officers, with Henry L. Dawes, of Pittsfield, as President.

The report was accepted.

On motion of Mr. BEARD, a committee of three was appointed to wait on Mr. Dawes, inform him of his selection and escort him to the chair—viz., A. W. Beard, of Boston; Hon. John E. Sanford, of Taunton, and C. C. Dowe, of Newburyport.

The committee retired, and soon after returned with Mr. Dawes, who took the chair amid applause, and called upon Rev. C. D. Hills, who offered prayer.

MR. DAWES' SPEECH.

Mr. DAWES then said:—

GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION—Before the Convention shall proceed to the consideration of the business for which it is assembled you will permit me to return my most grateful acknowledgments for the honor conferred on me by an invitation to preside over its deliberations. That honor derives its chief value from the fact that this is a Convention of Massachusetts republicans. It was in this Commonwealth that a political organization to meet an overshadowing national peril with the principles of the republican party had its origin; and here those principles have commanded an unfaltering support, through all the phases of early development, in every emergency of conflict with national enemies and during all the subsequent years of doubt and discouragement, waiting on the work of national restoration. And now, without a stain upon its honor, with the betrayal of no trust committed to its care, its representatives are gathered in convention here to-day, in the State of its birth, to deserve continued support by correcting the errors and missteps of the past by an enlightened and patriotic zeal in the present, and by a wise and comprehensive statesmanship for the future. I shall not seek to tickle the ear by boasting of past achievements, nor to turn your attention from the duty of the hour to the glorious record already made up by the republican party. It is not on these we live. According as we shall meet the present and prepare for the future will be the measure of public confidence bestowed upon us. We must deserve success or not hope to succeed. No party can live upon its past. To stand still is to go backward. Let the brilliant record of what has been done serve but to light up the path of duty and thus make more plain what is to be done. Let it be demonstrated that the party which led this nation safely through the red sea of the rebellion, has capacity to meet every new exigency and cope with every new force that shall spring up in its pathway. What that party has done which it ought not to have done let it not hesitate to undo; what it has yet left undone let it make haste to accomplish. The unbroken control of public affairs in Massachusetts, from the beginning of republican power, brings to your door not security but increased responsibility and earnest work. That wise policy which has so successfully carried, well nigh to completion, one of the grandest works of internal improvement of this or any age, require at the hands of those who began it that they should solve for Massachusetts the problem of cheap transportation and bring back to her in return for her expenditures the wealth of new industries and enlarged competition in old ones. The burden of taxation which the necessities of the war and the great undertakings of the State have laid upon her people demand also from those who are responsible for these burdens that the elements of necessity and equalization should pervade every system created for their enforcement. The presence of these two elements will lift without complaint the heaviest burden of taxation—their absence will make the lightest too heavy to be tolerated by the Massachusetts taxpayer. The labor of the State is its largest capital, and is entitled to the most remunerative investment that will not impair a just and fair return to those whose prosperity is inseparable from that of labor itself. On these and other questions of legislation now agitating the public mind, as thinking men we differ in respect to the means and methods, and their just limitations; but in the great purposes and beneficent ends to be attained we are a unit and in earnest.

But our work ends not here: we are also a part of that great national organization out of the glory of whose past comes the light which illumines the present, and the voice which is the inspiration of the future. As we shall discharge our duty at home, so shall we meet the requirements of the larger and broader relation. Our action here to-day and its results will reach in their influence beyond our Commonwealth to the remotest limits of national authority. The voice and vote of Massachusetts in the councils of the nation have been unbroken and undivided since the republican party has had a being. Shall they so continue?

THE SPIRIT OF THE REBELLION,

always sleeping so long as republican rule seems secure, but instinctively waking into incarnate ferocity at the faintest promise of a return of the democratic party to power, has been deluded by the spring elections, and has come out from its lurking places full armed to hunt and murder the loyal citizens, whom it hates. At such a time Massachusetts cannot afford to break her front and give a single vote to that party with which, by some strange instinct the "White Leaguer" and the Ku Klux ally themselves and refuse to be shaken off. There is not a democrat in Massachusetts, I know, whose soul does not revolt at the atrocities daily committed on defenceless Southern citizens, and who would not shun their perpetrators as he would a leper? And yet the inevitable tendency of things is stronger than good resolutions. Political allies must be political friends, until the humblest American citizen in the meanest hovel, though his face be as black as the heart of his persecutor, shall be armed with all legal weapons to defend himself in the enjoyment of every civil right to which the constitution entitles him. There is no room in the Massachusetts delegation in Congress for a single representative of that party whose votes are uniformly withheld from such legislation. Massachusetts has a sacred legacy in the Civil Rights bill which she cannot barter away nor intrust to any unfriendly keeping. The recent outrages upon the homes and lives of colored citizens at the South are shocking the heart of the nation, and the attempts to overthrow constituted authority in Southern States are filling it with serious forebodings. But these violent demonstrations are premature, and will defeat their own ends. They have taught the people, before it was too late, to withhold confidence from mere professions, and to devoutly thank God that a Grant, and not a Buchanan, wields the power of the government. No more than in civil rights can the Massachusetts republicans abate their zeal in the maintenance of the public faith, endangered by false theories of finance and open assaults, against which the Executive, whom they support, has interposed as a shield the just exercise of his constitutional prerogative. They will stand by the government of their choice in this controversy so long as there shall exist opposition to the restoration of gold and silver as the only true basis of the currency. The early resumption of specie payments and the payment of the debt of the nation in the money recognized by the civilized world. In all this work, local and national, the republican party will be true to its traditions and search itself. No taint of corruption in office will go unpunished; no unfaithfulness in public trust will be permitted to escape accountability, never imitating that Pharisaical spirit which contents itself with loud denunciations of corruption and crime in others, while carefully concealing its own defaults.

REPUBLICANISM PROBES ITS OWN SORES

and grows strong thereby—plucks out its own offending members, wherever they may be, and casts them from the public service. It will leave to others the task of discovering motes with beams in their own eyes, without fear that the people can be deceived thereby. Nor can they be won from the support of republican measures by that democratic school of antagonism which professes absolute free trade in Maine and high protection in Pennsylvania, hard money in Massachusetts and New York, inflated greenbacks and repudiation in Ohio and Indiana and a war of races in the South. Let it be remembered that incompatibility of principles in politics, like incompatibility of temper in the household, is sure to breed a dissolution. If you shall be true to your trusts and awake to your opportunities, then will it be demonstrated that by and through the republican party of the State and nation shall the live issues of the present and the just expectations of the future be successfully met. Thus and then will it be that in and through the republican party shall the civil service be regenerated, the public faith maintained inviolate, the public expenditures reduced to the lowest point of necessity and efficiency, the currency lifted to the specie level, the national debt placed upon a basis of gradual extinction in coin, the industries of the land so cared for that the American laborer shall control the labor and the wages that supply the American consumer, and the lawless assassin and uncured rebel shall be taught to respect the civil rights of every citizen and the constituted authorities of every state.

To accomplish these results is the duty of the hour. They lie in the direct pathway of the republican party and their attainment is the condition of continued success. But in the near future, even at our very doors, are questions of the utmost gravity and of the broadest scope, from the solution of which there will be no escape but to surrender. No one can fail to discern their approach and they will not admit of postponement, the deep seated political disease which, following the rebellion, has pervaded and wasted the life of the Southern States, demands heroic treatment. How shall the healing influences of uncorrupted self-government be made to pervade a body politic too sick to discard them and too weak to grasp them? The subtle and mighty agencies of the telegraph and steam covering the continent with the nerves and arteries of new systems of communication and of transmission, crossing State lines, passing under rivers, over mountains and through tunnels, and binding the nation in one unbroken and inextricable network, were unknown to the fathers who made this a Republic of separate States. These are working out their marvellous results through corporate powers and combined forces that rival the government itself in their ability to control the people and their interests. What shall be hereafter their relations to that government? Where shall the limit and check be placed? These are questions to which the political ear cannot be indifferent if it would.

ANOTHER AND A GREATER QUESTION

than all others confronts the thoughtful statesman as he turns his face to the future. The power of the central government is increasing, while that of the States is decreasing. The necessity of an efficient, unquestioned central power during the war and the subsequent periods of public disturbance, combined with great changes, produced both in the character and methods of all active life in this great people, spreading daily farther and farther, yet daily consolidating and centralizing all the agencies by which men move and are moved, have contributed to make centralization a habit of thought too familiar for safety. Under these influences and yielding to these tendencies shall State lines be permitted to fade and State authority to decay while we become more and more one nation and one government, or shall a stouter and firmer resistance to the drift and current hold the Union and the States each in its own sphere intact and unimpaired, and all in that one grand whole fitly described to be

"Distinct as the waves, yet one as the sea?"

The future of the Republic is crowded with great questions hitherto unknown or of little moment, but the settlement of which cannot be ignored by those who shall administer its affairs. To grapple with these as they shall rise, and to solve them in that broad and catholic spirit which shall command the final approval of a great and growing people, is the golden opportunity of the republican party. Will it prove itself equal to the just expectations of the future? I have faith in its wisdom and its statesmanship, and that in the long years to come it will continue to win success by deserving it.

Gentlemen of the Convention, I congratulate you on the grandeur of the work before you, and I congratulate the State and nation on the earnestness with which you enter upon it.

Mr. Dawes' speech was frequently interrupted by manifestations of approval. His reference to Grant in contrast to Buchanan especially elicited long continued applause, as was also its conclusion.

Mr. SLACK, of Boston, moved that, there being very few contesting delegates, the Convention proceed to nominate a candidate for Governor of the Commonwealth. Carried.

Mr. FLOOD, of Boston, moved that a committee of five at large and one from each county be appointed to receive and count the ballots. Carried.

On motion it was also ordered that the vote be taken by counties, and that the tellers stand upon the platform to receive the ballots.

A motion was made and rejected that the first ballot for Governor be informal.

On motion of Mr. HOWE, of Cambridge, it was agreed that at the completion of the ballot for Governor, the Convention take a recess until two o'clock, and the delegations of Senatorial districts were requested in the meantime to settle their respective nominees for the State Committee.

There were no presentations of candidates, and the Chair called upon the delegates to come forward by counties and deposit their votes for Governor.

As each delegation cast its vote it retired from the hall for the recess.

THE VOTES FOR GOVERNOR.

Pending the balloting a motion was made and carried extending the recess until half-past two.

It was known informally at twenty minutes past two P. M. that the whole number of votes cast was 1,042, of which Mr. Talbot had 755; Mr. Loring, 198; Charles Devens, Jr., 51; John E. Sanford, of Taunton, 20; B. F. Butler, 16; E. R. Hoar and Mr. Dawes, 1 each.

After the recess the Convention came to order at half-past two.

Mr. FAXON, of Quincy, moved a resolution for reference as follows:—

Resolved, That to protect the rights of law-abiding citizens at the republican caucuses held for the choice of delegates to the State Convention the ballot and check list shall be used, provided as many as five voters shall demand the same, and, in case of refusal of such request, the remonstrants may call another caucus and proceed to choose delegates to represent their respective wards or towns in said committee. Referred.

The chairman of the committee to receive, sort and count the votes officially announced the result as above mentioned.

Mr. A. H. RICE, of Boston, said:—

The remarkable unanimity which the vote just read has revealed shows that a very large majority of the representatives of the republican party of Massachusetts are in favor of the Hon. Thomas Talbot as candidate for Governor of Massachusetts. The expression of opinion, sir, must be received, I think, as the testimony of this Convention to his exalted character and to the purity of his life and of his example, and as an expression of the confidence on the part of the Convention that, if he shall be elected to that high office, he will discharge its duties with fidelity, with impartiality and with reference to the best interests of the party and of the Commonwealth. As we are alike interested in the triumph of those principles which have made the republican party of Massachusetts not only historic but renowned, and, as the triumph and perpetuation of these principles in the future can only be secured by unanimity on the part of the members of the party and of the principles of the party, I move, sir, that the nomination of the Hon. Thomas Talbot as candidate for Governor of Massachusetts be made unanimous by this Convention. (Applause.)

Mr. O. OLIVER, of Fall River, said:—

I shall, sir, object to any such resolution being passed by this body, and I will give my reason. I voted for Mr. Talbot for Lieutenant Governor and Mr. Washburn for Governor on the ground that they would not interfere with the people's representatives. But last winter, at the very first opportunity, the gentleman who has today received your vote went back on his record, on his promise to the republicans in 1872 and 1873 in this hall, when he agreed not to interfere with the liquor question; and I declare that I cannot, as an honest man, in this Convention vote for the unanimous nomination. I cannot do it for the simple reason that somebody has transgressed, not only upon the rules and privileges of our party, but, as I think, upon moral honesty.

The delegates from Fall River then requested that a vote be taken, and only half a dozen or so dissented.

Talbot's nomination was declared unanimous.

A delegate from Lawrence offered for reference a resolution that the past legislation of the republican party is the best guarantee of its position toward the workingmen and the rights of labor, and that the Convention pledges the party to continue and sustain such legislation.

THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNORSHIP.

A delegate moved, to save time, that the tellers proceed to collect through the hall the votes for Lieutenant Governor.

Another delegate objected to this, lest more votes be cast than there are delegates in the Convention.

After some further discussion it was decided to continue in force the plan adopted on the Gubernatorial ballot.

The Committee on Credentials reported that 339 cities and towns were represented by 1,124 delegates, and recommended that the Rockport delegates be excluded, on the ground that the caucus refused to use the check list when it was properly demanded, and that democrats and unnaturalized foreigners participated.

The sitting members from Walden and the contestants from ward 5 of Boston were admitted. The report was adopted.

The Convention then proceeded to ballot for a Lieutenant Governor.

The tellers reported for Lieutenant Governor:—Whole number, 1,012; necessary to a choice, 807; Patrick Donahue, Milo Hildreth and E. B. Stoddard, received 1 each; George B. Loring, 8; Charles P. Stickney, of Fall River, 271; Alfred Macy, of Nantucket, 286, and Horatio G. Knight, of East Hampton, 443.

Mr. Knight was then nominated by acclamation.

Oliver Warner was named by acclamation for Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Mr. COOK, of Boston, moved the nomination of Charles R. Train by acclamation for Attorney General. Carried.

Mr. BILLINGS, of Sharon, moved that Charles Endicott be nominated by acclamation for Auditor. Carried.

Charles Adams, Jr., of North Brookfield, was nominated unanimously by acclamation for Treasurer.

THE PLATFORM.

The Committee on Resolutions reported the following:—

The republicans of Massachusetts, proud of the record of their party, reaffirm their devotion to the great principles of justice upon which it was founded, and they pledge their best and constant endeavors to the maintenance of those principles in the future. Be it therefore

Resolved, That a sound currency is indispensable to national prosperity and that to this end the nation must make its demand promises to pay equal to gold, which is the recognized standard of value in the whole civilized world, and that it is, further, the duty of Congress to adopt such measures as shall lead to this realization of value, and that no inflation of the currency by adding to the government issues should be permitted.

Second—That Massachusetts has seen with abhorrence the attempt through banded leagues to deprive whole classes of our population of their constitutional prerogatives, and as the amplest protection of the individual in his civil rights and privileges is the great duty of the national government, therefore, as republicans reaffirming our abiding faith in fundamental rights and the exact equality of the citizen before the law in its largest sense, we express our gratitude to the President of the United States for his prompt interference against an effort at usurpation over a recognized State government, and for his determined opposition toward all movements and combinations seeking to abridge, limit or restrain the rights of any portion of the American people.

Third—That the republican party of Massachusetts demands and will require of all persons holding office, whether national, State or municipal, an administration of the government which shall conform to the highest standard of honesty, integrity and economy, to the end that the public indebtedness may be honorably and speedily paid and the burden of taxation lightened.

Fourth—That the record of the republican party of Massachusetts is a sufficient guarantee of its continued sympathy with that legislation which will promote the best interests of labor and tend to the moral and intellectual elevation of all persons engaged in intellectual pursuits.

Fifth—That the republican party has proved itself, under all circumstances, the party of progress and reform; that it has shown itself ready and prompt to correct all abuses and bring its own servants to a strict account for unfaithfulness in official conduct; that it denounces all laws and practices that open a way for corruption in the public service, and that it will demand of all its servants that their official position shall never be made subservient to their personal aggrandizement.

Sixth—That in the nomination of the Hon. Thomas Talbot as Chief Magistrate of this Commonwealth, this Convention expresses its appreciation of the character and ability of a distinguished public servant, and relying upon his administrative experience, his personal purity and sterling integrity, we feel confident of his triumphant election by our loyal and law-abiding people, and we heartily commend him and the other nominees of this Convention to the suffrages of our fellow citizens.

The resolutions were adopted.

The usual vote of thanks to the Convention was adopted.

Mr. FAXON, of Quincy, offered his resolution relative to government action, which he urged as necessary to protect the rights of republicans in caucus.

The Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions said they had referred this resolution to the State Committee.

Mr. FAXON urged action by the Convention and the resolution was adopted by an overwhelming vote.

Mr. DAWES returned thanks to the Convention. The Convention, at four o'clock, adjourned sine die.

THE MAYORALTY.

A New Deal Contemplated by Independent Democrats—Green's Little Game—What the Republicans Think About It.

Although the Apollo Hall democrats after the last election apparently laid aside all idea of ever again, as an organization, opposing the regular Tammany candidates in this city it now seems more than probable that the old leaders will make another effort during the coming campaign to defeat the wigwam standard bearers, as it is now an ascertained fact that ex-Sheriff O'Brien and the men who are recognized as managers on his side of the house have been quietly organizing their forces in every Assembly district, so as to be in readiness to hold an independent democratic convention to nominate candidates for Mayor and Register in case Tammany nominates Wickham and Hayes. In conversation with the leading spirit of this movement yesterday a HERALD reporter was informed that the calling of this convention would depend a great deal on the stand the republicans would make. Said the ex-Sheriff:—"The intention is, if Tammany does not put in the field a county ticket that will be satisfactory, to

to nominate a thoroughgoing democrat—one who has always been a democrat, a man whose charter is above reproach and who is well known to the community. Several gentlemen have been mentioned in this connection, among others Recorder Hackett and Judge Bixby. As for the Recorder, I do not believe he would accept. If the republicans can be induced not to make any nominations, a German will be put on the ticket for Register." Whether this independent move will amount to anything or not depends, therefore, it will be seen, upon the action of the republicans. And yet this is not the only new deal which the politicians are puzzling their heads over. Comptroller Green, it has leaked out, is also on the sly trying his hand in a little game, by which he hopes to be able to retain his place for another five years. It is a matter of gossip among the politicians that if Mr. Wickham is elected Mayor he will appoint John Kelly Comptroller at the expiration of Green's term of office, and that the policy is, if Wickham fails by any mishap to get nominated, to give him one of the places on the Aldermen at Large ticket, so that in case the democrats have a majority in the Board of Aldermen he can be made President and thus become a member of the Board of Apportionment. For reasons best known to himself Green does not like this arrangement, and since his old foe, George Van Nort, has been talked of as the probable republican candidate for Mayor, he has, according to the politicians, determined to play a desperate card for his own ultimate benefit; in fact kill two birds with the one stone by preventing Wickham from being in his way next year and triumphing over Van Nort. To this end he is working to induce the republicans not to make any nomination for Mayor in case Ottendorfer is offered a German independent nomination. Indeed, it is given out that Green is the real power behind the throne in the Ottendorfer movement, and that at the same time that he is making

PROMISES OF PATRONAGE,

&c., to the Custom House faction, he is pressing Ottendorfer's followers to go ahead with their plan of campaign. John Kelly's friends, when spoken to about the matter, while acknowledging that they had heard that Green and the Custom House were "getting very thick," said they could hardly believe that he would prove false to Kelly unless Havemeyer had won him completely over to make mischief by the aid of his republican friends. If the old Apollo Hall leaders, who talk of putting a ticket in the field, provided the republicans will keep out of the way, and the Ottendorfer people, pushed on by Green, will do the same thing on the same conditions, the local campaign will indeed be a lively one. The republicans, however, finding themselves so highly prized, will, doubtless, fight shy of all and will take advantage of the mixed condition of affairs by going in to win on their own hook. One of the Custom House leaders, who is a strong candidate for Congress in one of the uptown districts, in speaking of the situation, remarked:—"If we can win with a straightout republican ticket against the split up factions of our opponents we will have nothing to do with any one of them; but if we can't we may be accommodating. We don't love Green or Ottendorfer any more than we like Havemeyer, but everything is fair in war." He also added that his individual opinion was that if Ottendorfer ran as an independent candidate against Tammany George M. Van Nort for Mayor and Charles E. Loew for Register (to draw the German democratic vote) would head the republican county ticket.

The republican leaders intended to hold a private conference last evening, at which the prospects of the local campaign were to be talked over and some decision arrived at as to what was best to be done should there be a good opportunity of winning the day by joining hands with one of the democratic factions. Owing to the absence of two or three of the managers whose presence was necessary to make the decision of the proposed meeting an authoritative one, the conference was not held. It will probably be held some time to-day. It is understood that there is considerable difference of opinion among the managers as to the advisability of having anything to do with "outsiders." Those who believe that the ticket to be nominated should be a straight out and out republican ticket point to the results which followed the republican-Apollo Hall combination at the last election as an incontrovertible argument against combinations of any kind.

A WORKINGMEN'S CONVENTION.

Mr. Charles A. Dana Nominated for Mayor.

A convention of workingmen from the various Assembly districts was held in Masonic Hall last night, to nominate candidates for Mayor, Register and Aldermen at large.

Mr. William Carsy was elected President.

Each delegation was allowed to name its own candidates, and, after a long debate, the following were recorded as nominated:—Theodore E. Tomlinson, John Swinton, John Ennis, Charles A. Dana and Wilson G. Hunt.

After a short time it became evident that the Convention was nearly equally divided on the names of Messrs. Dana and Tomlinson. There was great cheering and some hissing, and after some hours' debate a vote resulted in 94 for Dana and 57 for Tomlinson, and the vote for Mr. Dana was made unanimous.

Theodore E. Tomlinson, John S. Giles, W. MacNally (who declined on the spot), and General M. T. MacMahon were nominated for Register. Mr. Tomlinson was nominated by acclamation after a brief discussion.

The question of Aldermen was held over to a future meeting.

REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE.

The initiatory meeting of the Republican State Committee, of which ex-Governor Morgan is Chairman, and Henry A. Glidden, Secretary, was held yesterday afternoon at the headquarters, Fifth Avenue Hotel. Only a few members were present at any one time, not sufficient to constitute a quorum, so that the business done was informal and of an unimportant character. A meeting of the committee, or at least of some of its members, will be held daily at four o'clock P. M. Several prominent republicans of the State called at the Fifth avenue headquarters yesterday.

REPUBLICAN GENERAL COMMITTEE.

A special meeting of this organization was held last evening at the headquarters of the Eighteenth Assembly District Republican Association, No. 457 Fourth avenue, the President, Mr. Hugh Gardner in the chair and Mr. James R. Davies secretary. The minutes of the two previous meetings were read and approved. Commissioner William Laimbeer tendered his resignation as a member of the General Committee from the Sixteenth Assembly district, owing to his removal therefrom. The resignation was accepted and Mr. G. Joseph Ruch appointed in his stead.

Mr. George W. Lyon, Secretary of the Executive Committee, reported in its behalf that the conventions to make County, congressional, Aldermanic and Assembly nominations will be held as follows:—

Assembly—On Friday, October 16, at headquarters of districts.

Aldermanic—On Saturday, October 17.

Congressional—On Monday, October 19, and county, on Tuesday, October 20, at Republican Hall.

On motion the call was accepted and adopted.

Mr. Jacob M. Patterson, chairman of the Executive Committee, reported that the hall in West Thirty-third street, east of Broadway, known as Ebbit Hall, has been rented by the committee at an annual rental of $4,000, which report was adopted.

A motion to adjourn was proposed, when Colonel Spencer suggested that the State ticket should be ratified by resolutions before doing so. The Chairman announced that the Committee on Resolutions were busy now on this subject. Mr. William A. Darling, Chairman of Committee on Resolutions, shortly after offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, That this committee cordially indorse the nominations made by the Republican State Convention held at Utica, and that we appreciate the involuntary tribute paid to the character and fitness of its candidates by the Democratic State Convention, which was unable to find a cause of rebuke against them.

Resolved, That we pledge the united and untiring efforts of the party in this city and county of New York to perpetuate an administration which has rescued the sinking fund of the State from the hands of the spoilers, and which has fulfilled in every respect the honest expectations of the people and has borne good fruit to the reform movement against the Tammany Ring.

Resolved, That we pledge our friends in the country to reduce the democratic majority in this city to 20,000.

The committee hereupon adjourned. The primary elections of the republicans will be held on Monday night, October 12.

LIBERAL REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.

Liberal republican primaries were held last night throughout the various Assembly districts for the purpose of electing delegates to a County Convention on October 9, Congressional Convention on the 12th inst., Aldermanic conventions on the 10th inst. and Assembly conventions on the 17th inst.

ELECTION IN DELAWARE.

WILMINGTON, Oct. 7, 1874.

An election was held yesterday in this State for inspector and assessors to conduct the election in November. A full vote was polled, with the following results:—Kent county, democratic majority 146; Sussex county, democratic majority 217; Newcastle, democratic majority 102.

THE GEORGIA ELECTION.

A Clean Sweep by the Democrats.

AUGUSTA, Oct. 7, 1874.

The election for members to the Legislature passed off quietly. Scarcely any opposition, except in a few counties, was made to the democratic candidates. There will not be exceeding fourteen republicans in both houses at the next General Assembly, thus giving a democratic majority on the joint ballot of 205. In this county about 1,700 votes were polled, giving a democratic majority of 1,500.

J. C. C. Black, Patrick Walsh and Walter Clark were elected.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Governor Moses Nominated for the State Legislature—The Old Scandal About the "Certificates of Indebtedness" Likely To Be Revived.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 7, 1874.

Governor Moses was nominated to-day by the Convention of this (Richmond) county as a candidate for the lower branch of the State Legislature, by a vote of 40 to 38. This is considered equivalent to an election, though the minority bolted, and will try to defeat Moses in convention to-morrow by the nomination of another candidate. He is too popular with the negroes, however, and will, without doubt, sweep away all opposition by the time of the election. His object is again to become Speaker of the House of Representatives, in which capacity he formerly controlled the entire legislation of the State and increased its debt by the issue of over $1,000,000 of scrip, known as certificates of indebtedness, which were paid by the Treasurer, and the money was converted, it has been alleged, to the use of Moses and his friends. It is said, too, that Congressman Elliott is also an aspirant for the Speakership of the House, which gives the contest for this position especial interest.

THE LOUISIANA CONTROVERSY.

Charles O'Conor Criticizes the Argument of Reverdy Johnson.

CAN THE WRONG BE RIGHTED?

The President Can and Should Reconsider His "Decision."

A BRILLIANT LETTER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1874

TO JAMES GORDON BENNETT, Esq., Editor of the HERALD:—

DEAR SIR—The single point in issue between Mr. Johnson and myself, is whether an executive error, such as he says the President committed in stifling the legitimate voice of Louisiana and placing a usurper in the chair of State, binds the President himself, and makes him a sort of liegeman; so that, willy nilly, he must thenceforth be ever ready to come at the call of the usurper, and, with the whole executive power of the Union, crush all local opposition to him. The illegitimacy of Kellogg's original claim is asserted by Mr. Johnson, with the concurrence of nearly every intelligent and disinterested person having any knowledge of the subject. This should be kept in view, since much is always gained in a discussion by confining the issue to its own precise limits. One advantage here is, that it will enable those learned jurists who may think that Kellogg was duly elected to examine, and without the excitement of passion or partiality, to form an independent opinion concerning Mr. Johnson's dogma that executive resolutions in such a case are irrevocable. It is unfortunate for justice and for Louisiana if Mr. Johnson's views are sound. If they are unsound it is equally unfortunate for justice and Louisiana, since their practical triumph is, in her case, pretty certain; and it is further unfortunate for Mr. Johnson and General Grant since, if accepted, they compel the latter to persist in an evil course from a mistaken sense of duty and involve the latter in the responsibility of evil counsel tending to great mischief. They cut off entirely Louisiana's hope of a deliverance from her woes, since they forbid her oppressor to relent and make the perpetuation of injustice his absolute duty. This dogma seems to have won upon Mr. Johnson since he first ventilated it, for his second letter reiterates it in a manner that indicates affection; and, while he has not seen fit either to admit or deny that even Congress could give relief, his arguments all tend to establish the contrary.

The dogma may be sound, constitutional law. Mr. Johnson's great and merited fame affords it weight and, it may be feared, invincible support, but the arguments offered in its vindication can have no such effect. They certainly weaken its claims to acceptance.

I. Decisions are cited to show that when an executive officer, under a special authority conferred upon him for a precisely defined purpose, performs a particular act, essentially ministerial and which, in its own nature, can be performed but once, the courts will not review his proceedings should they be collaterally questioned in a suit between litigant parties. These decisions are scarcely relevant. And, indeed, it would be difficult to find any that could materially help either side in this discussion. There is extremely little resemblance between judicial decisions and executive resolutions. I adverted incidentally to the legal tender judgment, not as an authority in point, but as a familiar and recent instance to prove a general proposition well known to lawyers—i. e., that all official determinations, however solemn, are revocable. It is quite true that on a claim by A. B. against C. D. a judgment actually recovered, if unappealable or not appealed from in season, settles the right to the particular sum or thing in controversy between these two private persons, so that the defeated defendant cannot, in general, recover it back in another action. Even this is only the general rule. It is not without exceptions, for if fraud and falsehood be practised in obtaining an unjust judgment there is a remedy. (Byers vs. Surget, 19 Howard's, U. S. R., 308; Bowen vs. Evans, 2 House of Lords Cases, 281; Michigan vs. Phœnix Bank, 33 N. Y. Reports, p. 30.) But the general rule of the judicial department, which I thus admit, has not the remotest application to the proceedings before General Grant on the rival claims of McEnery and Kellogg to the Governorship.

Mr. Johnson says:—"The parties in the controversy brought before the President are the persons claiming to be the Governor and the people of the State. The President's judgment upon it, as soon as pronounced, binds the Governor, the people and every one else. * * * How, then, can the President by a second judgment, in a controversy between the same parties, presenting precisely the same questions, reverse his first ruling so as to affect them or impair any rights vested in either party by virtue of his original action?" I submit with deference that this notion of the President adjudicating as a judge in this supposed triangular suit is a misconception. In his proceedings there is no citation, issue or trial. There are no parties, in any sense of the term which is recognized in jurisprudence, nor is there any judgment. There is nothing in the whole affair but executive action, though it must be admitted that such action binds every one until revoked. Calling it a decision, as we all do, is merely a fashion of speaking or a compliment to the executive officer; it is assumed from courtesy that he examines the facts and deliberates on the law. Proof that he did neither would not, however, weaken the legal force of his action or of his decision, if we must so call it. It is enough that some person or persons claiming to be the State government, who were forcibly resisted, sought his interposition. An instantaneous "judgment" in their favor, first announced to the astounded people by the thunder of federal artillery against their State capital, would settle the question and silence all voices that might attempt opposition in any regularly constituted legal forum, save and except only the Congress of the United States. No court can give a valid judgment in any case in that way; the word "judgment" is, therefore, totally inapplicable. The President's act is binding on private persons merely because they have no power to resist and no judicial remedy; it is binding in all judicial and other tribunals merely because the constitution has not clothed any of them with authority to review the President's acts.

So much for the imagined analogy between the acts of the supreme executive chief of a nation and the decisions of its judicial department.

The present is not a technical inquiry, nor can it be much aided by a citation of judicial decisions. There is nothing on Mr. Johnson's point in the constitution itself. That instrument confers no express power on the President, or even on Congress; it is "the United States" that must protect the true State governments "from domestic violence." Right reason and sound views of governmental policy must be our guides in its solution. The great unwritten principles of social justice can alone be advantageously invoked. Mr. Hamilton, in his twenty-first letter, cited by Mr. Johnson, says not a word bearing upon this point directly or indirectly.

II. Mr. Johnson's arguments ab inconvenienti are much more pertinent and appropriate to the discussion than his citation of judicial decisions. The latter are slightly relevant, if at all so. They are interminable in their variety and technical subtlety, and much more calculated to confuse than elucidate an inquiry like the present. As he himself justly remarks, each one that might be cited is more or less affected by some minute fact impalpable to the ordinary reader. When exerting himself to show the convenience of his dogma he is on the true platform for debate, and what he says under this head demands, and shall receive from me, at least, the most respectful attention. And here Mr. Johnson is easily answered.

He says that, allowing the President to correct his own errors when, on fuller advisement, they are detected by himself, would be a dangerous power. As an example, he puts the imaginary case of a capricious or stupid and vacillating chief, who might change his mind frequently, and hurl State governments into power and out of it from day to day. This course, it must be admitted, would be no less mischievous to those concerned than amusing to heartless and indifferent lookers-on. And he supposes that the constitution, in order to prevent such mischiefs, virtually precludes the President from reconsidering his own mistakes. The sober common sense of the fathers contemplated no necessity of guarding against such antics. Nero and Heliogabalus had a timid and servile hereditary Senate to countenance their tyrannical eccentricities. In providing the people with control through their fairly chosen representatives this class of evils was sufficiently guarded against. I do not pretend that they were even thought of; our system of government is not liable to them. It was the exercise of an undoubted power in a calm and orderly manner but under vicious counsels and to pernicious ends, that was feared. As far as human wisdom could guide, it was provided against by the constitution. A blind or tyrannical exercise of official power, once for all, by thrusting in a favorite satrap and persistently supporting him, is the only evil in this connection that sagacity could have foreseen or that experience has developed.

The other set of imagined evils is, indeed, a pretty formidable raw head and bloody bones, and well calculated to affright the lovers of peace and order. It is suggested that everything done under the rule of a usurper would be set aside by his expulsion, and "confusion worse confounded" would ensue. The terrible nature of such consequences are not to be desired. But the law repudiates the assumed premises. No such consequences would follow a change of opinion by the President, and his consequent refusal to recognize a displaced usurper whom in the honest and conscientious exercise of his constitutional power, but under mistaken impressions as to the facts or the law, he had seated in the chair of State a year or two previously. When recognized by the President and thenceforth, as long as he held in his possession the insignia of office and exercised the duties of State executive, the usurper would be Governor de facto. All his acts, as such, would be perfectly valid and binding as it respects all persons except himself. If he were displaced in any manner, legal or illegal, his official acts while in possession would still remain valid to all intents and purposes, notwithstanding his removal and notwithstanding any express or implied sanction of such removal by the President. The acts of a usurping interim Legislature would be subject to the same rule. So far, indeed, as they were not carried into execution by the actual vesting of rights under them, they might, and doubtless would, cease to operate from the moment of the change which should bring into power the rightful authorities. Thus it will be seen that the general unwritten common law has provided a means of preserving the interests of individuals and of the Commonwealth from the imaginary confusion and disorder which might be supposed to result from the overthrow of an intrusive government. This doctrine is as familiar as it is necessary. The "Law Student's Primer" mentions a striking illustration of it. "Treasons committed against Henry VI. (of Lancaster) were punished under Edward IV. (of York), though all the line of Lancaster had previously been declared usurpers by act of Parliament." (4 Blackstone's Commentaries, p. 77.)

This conservative principle is deeply seated in the common law, and occasions for its application are constantly arising. Let a single and familiar instance suffice:—A usurper once held the Register's office in this city for a long period. He held it and exercised its functions until ousted by a judgment of the Court of Appeals. He remained in the office a considerable time after the Supreme Court had decided against him. He was adjudged to be a usurper from the beginning, without any title to the office. (People vs. Coutant, 11 Wendell's R., 132 and 511.) Many titles to valuable property may, and doubtless do, depend on the validity of this man's acts. Mr. Johnson would find no difficulty in sustaining them.

It is true that in such cases the usurper cannot plead his unrighteous possession of the office in bar of a prosecution against himself for injuries resulting from his unjust acts; nor could he recover the salary allowed for lawfully exercising the office. In these consequences there is not any great mischief. I submit that the arguments ab inconvenienti fail utterly, and Mr. Johnson has advanced no others. With much regard, your obedient servant,

CHARLES O'CONOR.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

Speech of the Ex-President at Shelbyville.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 7, 1874.

Ex-President Johnson spoke three hours and a half at Shelbyville yesterday. The speech was mainly devoted to defending himself against the Union and American (Chattanooga) special and editorial of October 3, in which he was designated as an ex-republican President and in favor of the repudiation of State and national obligations.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

A fire broke out last evening at the wood and willow ware establishment of Burgher & Co., No. 214 Washington street. It was first noticed about half-past eight o'clock, but must have been smouldering for some time previously. Owing to the light and inflammable nature of the material the flames spread with great rapidity, and in an incredibly short space of time the whole building was in a blaze. The engines were promptly on the ground, but for a long time they seemed to be utterly powerless to grapple with the fire. The whole block seemed in danger, as immense clouds of sparks rose from the burning building and scattered over the houses in the neighborhood. No inconsiderable quantity of them fell on Washington Market, and fears were entertained that the dry wooden structures there would catch fire; but, fortunately, the sparks were small and were half extinguished before they fell. The flames blazed up fifteen feet or more above the roof, and sent a brilliant glare of light all over the vicinity, and as floor after floor fell in with a crash the light would increase and the sparks become thicker. The firemen mounted on the roofs of the neighboring houses and on the walls of the burning building itself, and sent a copious flood of water on the parts that seemed most exposed, but it was fully ten o'clock before they succeeded in bringing it under control. As soon as the inflammable goods stored in the house were destroyed it was comparatively easy to deal with the fire, but the whole inside of the house was consumed. An immense and somewhat excited crowd witnessed the fire, not a few of them living in tenement houses near, who were anxious lest it should spread.

When the fire seemed on the point of being extinguished it broke out afresh and with almost equal rage in the lower part of the front of the house, and the utmost exertions of the firemen could not stop it till there was nothing left but the charred and blackened walls. The loss is estimated at over $30,000.

The house was occupied by Burgher & Co., willow ware dealers, who suffered a loss in stock of $18,000; insured. Soyer & Pierson, produce dealers, who occupied the basement, suffered a damage to their stock by water of about $1,000. The building belonged to Hopping & Wilson, of No. 218 Washington street. It is supposed to be damaged to the extent of $10,000; insured. No. 89 Barclay street, occupied by J. T. Potter, and No. 91, occupied by J. W. Stout, were injured by water to the amount of about $1,000. Hills Bros., of No. 212 Washington street, suffered a loss on their stock, which was injured by water, to the amount of $2,000. At No. 216 Washington street, occupied by P. L. Brower, dealer in country produce, a damage of $2,000 was done by both fire and water.

Fire Marshal Sheldon has ordered an investigation.

AMERICAN JOCKEY CLUB.

Second Day of the Fall Meeting at Jerome Park.

SIX SPIRITED RACES.

Fadladeen the Winner of the Mile Race, Madge of the Hunter Stakes, Catesby of the Maturity Stakes, Aristides the Two-Year-Old Race, Grinstead the Mile and a Half and Trouble the Handicap Steeplechase.

The second day of the fall meeting of the American Jockey Club was more interesting than the first, as no less than six turf events were on the programme, the concluding one being a handicap steeplechase. Although yesterday was unexceptionally fine in regard to weather, leaving aside the drizzling rain at dusk, which came too late to injure visitors to Jerome Park, the attendance was about the same as on Saturday. The ever changing hues of the foliage in the Park this month are a constant source of delight to the eye. Everything was bright and fresh and beautiful at noontide; the sweet little songsters warbled their sprightliest notes; the tall trees waved majestically to and fro in the breeze as if communing with each other, and the gorgeous tints in which the sere autumn robed the foliage, before dark and dreary Winter wraps its gray mantle around their naked branches, lent enchantment to the scene. The scene from the grand stand during the races was no less inspiring. On the left was the Park View Bluff, outside the Jerome precincts; opposite the Club House, with its pale green bluff and group of yew trees; beyond a silent windmill on the right, an anxious crowd around the pool stands; still further on, the little hillock, where so many steeplechasers have come to grief and where all passed over yesterday in safety. In the immediate vicinity was a labyrinth of vehicles of all kinds. When the races were over the inevitable rush was made for the road, and the great caravan of spectators moved citywards.

Jerome park; half past five;
There go the carriages—look alive!
Everything that man can drive,
Or his inventive skill contrive,
Yankee buggy or English "chay,"
Dog cart, tandem and smart coupe,
A desobligeante little bulky
(French idea of Yankee sulky);
Laces tremble and ribbons flout,
Coachmen wrangle and M. P.s shout.

On Saturday next the third day of the fall meeting will introduce a number of events attractive in the highest degree to the patrons of the turf.

THE RACING.

The track was in splendid condition, and the weather being suitable the six events that were on the card came off in the most satisfactory manner. All the races were well run and good time made in each. The first race was a dash of a mile, for all ages; the second a mile and three-quarters by three-year-old fillies; the third was by four-year olds, a dash of three miles; the fourth by two-year olds, five furlongs; the fifth a dash of a mile and a half for all ages, and the sixth race was a handicap steeple chase.

Eleven horses started for the first race. These were T. A. Hitchcock's chestnut filly Quits, M. H. Sanford's bay horse Preakness, Dugald J. Bannatyne's bay colt Audubon, Oden Bowie's bay colt Picolo, A. B. Lewis & Co.'s chestnut filly Governess, J. W. Hunt Reynold's chestnut colt Marmion, P. Lorillard's bay colt Stanford, Jacob Pincer's bay colt The Hoaxer, A. Belmont's gray horse Gray Planet, T. B. & W. R. Davis' chestnut horse Fadladeen, and D. McDaniel's chestnut filly Rosebud. Preakness was a great favorite, Stanford second choice, Picolo third. Fadladeen won the race very handily, the old horse taking the lead at the half-mile pole and coming away galloped home two lengths in front of Preakness, who beat Gray Planet a neck. The Paris Mutuels paid $163 20.

The second race, the Hunter's Stakes, had four starters only out of twenty-three nominations, comprising D. McDaniel & Co.'s chestnut filly Madge, by Australian; M. H. Sanford's chestnut filly Lava, A. B. Lewis & Co.'s bay filly Vandalite and W. Cottrell's chestnut filly Bonaventure. The latter was the favorite, Vandalite the second choice, Madge the third. The latter won the race in gallant style, Bonaventure second, Vandalite third. Madge was ridden on this occasion by Barbee, who nursed the filly for a mile and a half, running third to the head of the stretch, then coming with the great burst of speed which the filly possesses, she soon rushed to the front and won the race by two lengths. The favorite and Vanderlite were close together at the finish. Bonaventure second. The time—3:10—was 5½ seconds faster than it was ever run in before, the best previous time having been made by Remorseless in 1870, which was 3:15¾.

The Maturity Stakes was the third race, three miles for four-year-olds. For this event four out of twenty-eight entries came to the post. These were Oden Bowie's bay colt Catesby, John Coffee's black colt B. F. Carver, Owner's bay colt Wildidle, and Babcock and Ransom's bay colt Ransom. Catesby was the favorite, Wildidle the second choice, B. F. Carver the third. Catesby won a very easy race in capital time; in fact, the time has never been excelled for this stake except by Monarchist in 1872. Catesby ran the three miles in 5:36, and there is no doubt he could have run the distance several seconds sooner had he been called on for better time. He trailed for two miles and three-quarters, and then moving up the front won in a canter. Wildidle was second, B. F. Carver third.

The fourth race was a five furlong dash by two year olds, and the starters were Wood, Stringfield's gray colt Enlister, M. H. Sandford's brown filly Fine Work, P. Lorillard's chestnut filly Springlet, F. Morris' bay colt by Warminster, J. Pincer's chestnut filly Scramble, A. Belmont's chestnut colt Babylon, Owner's chestnut colt Aristides, D. McDaniel's chestnut colt by Australian and Oden Bowie's bay colt Holbrook. Aristides sold for nearly as much in the pools as all the other horses combined; Fine Work was the second choice and the Warminster colt the third sought after. Aristides jumped off with the lead and kept it throughout the race, winning by a length, Fine Work second, Babylon third. Mr. Sandford's filly finished gallantly, and many persons were impressed with the belief that if she had made her run a little sooner, instead of laying behind all the others for over a quarter of a mile, she would have won the race. Aristides is a remarkably fine colt, and will be found hard to beat, however, this year.

The fifth race had nine starters. These were M. H. Sandford's bay gelding Kadi, Oden Bowie's bay colt Picolo, A. B. Lewis & Co.'s bay mare Bessie Lee, Lawrence & G. Lorillard's chestnut colt Resolute, John McCormack's chestnut horse Spindrift, J. W. Hunt Reynold's bay horse Whisper, Owner's bay mare Jury, Thomas Pinyear & Co.'s bay colt Grimstead, and D. McDaniel's chestnut horse Harry Bassett. Spindrift was a great favorite over any named horse, Resolute being the second choice, and Harry Bassett the third. Grimstead sold lowest and won the race, his backers reaping a rich harvest. Harry Bassett ran well for over a mile, but then his jockey had the misfortune, when leading, to break his stirrup, and in an instant afterwards Harry Bassett sulked and began shortening his stride. This horse is a great rogue. He can run fast, but will only do so when in the humor. He ran on this occasion with blinkers, and but for the break of the stirrup would, probably, have won the race, as he appeared to have more speed than any of the others until the accident happened.

The sixth and last race of the day was a handicap steeplechase, with seven starters, comprising A. H. Torrence's chestnut gelding Trouble, carrying 150 lbs.; M. J. Tully's bay gelding Vesuvius, 142 lbs.; Ed. Jackson's gray gelding Buckshot, 140 lbs.; J. S. Cattanack's bay gelding Impecunious, 140 lbs.; A. B. Lewis & Co.'s bay gelding Chief Engineer, 140 lbs.; A. P. Green's bay mare Daylight, 136 lbs., and Lawrence & G. Lorillard's black filly Lady Bruce, 125 lbs. Trouble was a great favorite, selling in the pools for nearly as much money as all the others together. He won the race, proving himself a most capital jumper, as well as a rapid running horse. Daylight was second and Vesuvius third. Impecunious refused the third jump, and gave up the race at that time. Buckshot also stopped before the affair was over, but all the others went the journey and made a capital race.

The following are the details:—

Madge	280	660	490	380
Vandalite	325	650	500	450
Field	120	205	190	100

THE RACE.

Vandalite took the lead, Madge second, Bonaventure third, Lava fourth. Bonaventure ran up and took sides with Vandalite at the bluff, and then, as she dashed around the hill, went to the front. When the horses came in sight on the lower turn Bonaventure was leading a length, Vandalite second, Madge third, six lengths in front of Lava. There was about half a length of daylight between the leading trio as they passed the three-quarter pole. The horses then ran at a good pace up the homestretch, and as they passed the stand Bonaventure was leading half a length, Vandalite second, two lengths in front of Madge, who was eight lengths in advance of Lava. Going around the upper turn, Bonaventure drew clear of Vandalite, the latter leading Madge two lengths. At the quarter pole Bonaventure was one length in front of Vandalite, the latter leading Madge two lengths, Lava five lengths behind; but then she began to move on the others. As the fillies came down to the bluff Bonaventure led two lengths, Vandalite second, two lengths in front of Madge, the latter about the same distance in advance of Lava. Bonaventure opened the gap as she circled around the hill, and on her appearance on the lower turn she was three lengths ahead of Vandalite, the latter one length in advance of Madge, Lava following four lengths away. Just before the fillies reached the three-quarter pole the racing commenced in earnest. Madge ran up to Vandalite, and the latter following her sharply, they both lay alongside of Bonaventure as they swung into the homestretch. Madge soon gave the others the go-by, and coming on under a stiff pull, Barbee brought her home a winner of the stakes by two lengths, Bonaventure a head in front of Vandalite, the latter five lengths in advance of Lava. Time of the mile and three-quarters, 3:10. The stakes were worth $2,350. The Paris Mutuels paid $13.

THE RACE.

Wildidle took the lead, Ransom second, Catesby third and Carver fourth. At the quarter pole Wildidle led two lengths, Ransom second, three lengths in front of Catesby, the latter being a like distance in advance of B. F. Carver, who was pulled nearly double. There was no change of place, and the horses ran very leisurely around the bluff, along the lower turn and up the homestretch. As they passed the stand at the completion of the first mile Wildidle was leading four lengths, Ransom second, five lengths in front of Catesby, the latter being six lengths in advance of B. F. Carver. The second mile was run without a change of place, but as the horses passed the judges' stand they drew closer together, Wildidle leading four lengths, Ransom second, two lengths ahead of Catesby, the latter three lengths in advance of Carver; but the latter appeared at this point as if he had run far enough. Going around the turn into the third mile Catesby moved up and took second place at the quarter pole, and the racing then began to sharpen. Wildidle led three lengths at the bluff; but when he came in sight on the lower turn he was only one length ahead of Catesby, and appeared in difficulties. He was laboring, while the other was running in hand. As soon as Catesby came into the homestretch he went up and passed Wildidle, and, galloping on ahead of him, won the race by three lengths. B. F. Carver came in third, about twenty lengths behind, but one length in advance of Ransom. The three miles were run in 5:36. The stake was worth $4,200. The Paris Mutuels paid $10 80.

Bassett and Spindrift led around the turn, but when they reached the quarter pole Resolute was on even terms with them, and he took the lead around the bluff, going out of sight a length ahead of Spindrift, Bassett third, Kadi fourth, Bessie Lee fifth, Jury sixth, Picolo seventh, Grinstead eighth, Whisper ninth. At the three-quarter pole Resolute was still in front, but Bessie Lee, Kadi and Grinstead were in close proximity. Grinstead soon burst away from the others, and, coming home gallantly, won the race by two lengths, Kadi second, half a length in front of Bessie Lee, Picolo fourth, Resolute fifth, Whisper sixth, Harry Bassett seventh, Spindrift eighth, Jury ninth. Time of the mile and a half, 2:40¾. The Paris Mutuels paid $45.

THE RACE.

Trouble was first away, Vesuvius second, Lady Bruce third, Daylight fourth, Chief Engineer fifth, Buckshot sixth, Impecunious seventh. The horses jumped the first hurdle, which was on the fractional track immediately behind the judges' stand, and ran down to the end of the track and then jumped into the north field. When in the field they jumped two brush fences. The last one Impecunious refused, and afterward would take no further part in the race. Trouble showed the way over the hurdle at the foot of the bluff, through the south field, over the hedges and ditches, and then over the water jump in front of the stand and Club House, Daylight second, Vesuvius third, Lady Bruce fourth. They ran in this way to the top of the picnic ground, when Trouble refused the wall for a moment and Daylight took the lead; but Trouble soon took the lead again, and Daylight and he had a spirited struggle to the end. Buckshot stopped after coming down the hill from the picnic ground and gave up the hunt. Trouble won the race by two lengths, Daylight second, Vesuvius third, Lady Bruce fourth, Chief Engineer fifth. Time of the chase, 5:38½. The Paris Mutuel paids $9 40.

The third day of the meeting will be on Saturday next.

TROTTING AT PROSPECT PARK FAIR GROUNDS.

The second day of the fall meeting at Prospect Park Fair Grounds was not very well attended. There were probably about three hundred spectators present yesterday. This may be accounted for by the threatening aspect of the weather from an early hour of the morning, which prevented many from venturing on the road. The attractions at Jerome Park also had a tendency to decrease the number of visitors to this course. The drive through Prospect Park, along the new boulevard, almost to the entrance of the track, is exceedingly pleasant. Had the weather been propitious the lovers of this popular amusement would, no doubt, have turned out in full force.

There were two trots yesterday—the first, for a purse of $600, for horses that had never beaten 2:36, and the second, for a purse of $1,000, for horses that had never beaten 2:24. Seventeen entries had been announced in the first stakes and seven in the latter. The track was rather heavy after the severe rain of Monday night.

The first race was not completed and was adjourned until twelve o'clock to-day. In the fourth heat of the first race Whipple, driver of Lady White, was fined $25 for loud shouting.

The following are the

SUMMARIES.

PEDESTRIANISM.

Weston's Walk—Another Hard Day's Work.

Weston yesterday still continued his efforts to accomplish his heavy task. He suffered, however, from his feet becoming very much heated, which caused him trouble and made him appear at times to be walking lame. Toward night, however, by the treatment he received this difficulty was pretty well overcome and he resumed more nearly his natural gait. Up to midnight on Tuesday Weston had walked 170 miles and still went on with his work until 3h. 45m. 45s., by which time he had scored 182 miles. He then slept until 7h. 43m. 42s., when he once more toed the line, and made another start and walked ten miles before breakfast, which was taken at 10h. 10m. 45s. The 200th mile was reached at 12h. 41m. 26s., the 210th at 4h. 1m. 40s., and the 214th at 5h. 21m. 58s., when he went to his room for supper, resuming his walk at 7h. 32m. 40s. The 225th mile was reached at 9h. 50m., when Weston took another short rest. He then announced his intention of walking without retiring to his room until he had made his 260th mile, which he expected to reach at 6h. 30m. this morning.

Weston Needs Too Much Doctoring—The Hippodrome a Hospital.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7, 1874.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

I have all my life taken a great interest in pedestrianism. I heard of Mr. Weston many years ago, and on my visiting this country I took the first opportunity of witnessing his performance. I can assure you, however, that I have been sadly disappointed. I expected to see a man who was really what he was represented to be, instead of one who seems to have a vast amount of pluck and very little else to recommend himself to the public as the "greatest pedestrian in the world." His endeavor at the Rink was more creditable than his walk of last month, which, as every one knows, was a most decided failure, although nothing that science could do was left undone to compel a man to walk who had no right to make the attempt if not in a proper condition, and thus deceive the public. Mr. Weston is perfectly aware that he never could or will accomplish his undertaking. I never, nor any one else, saw a walkist who required one-quarter the attention Mr. Weston receives. Mr. Weston needs too much plastering, doctoring and coaching ever to be a walkist. I was surprised to see the incessant coaching he received on Monday. Were it the last day some excuse might be made; but taking into consideration that the "patient" was "never in a better condition," I think it ought to have been unnecessary. Mr. Weston decidedly betrayed signs of weakness—so much so that he had to take stimulants at about every ten minutes, in addition to men fanning him all the time. It was necessary for him to keep ice in his mouth, for what purpose I do not know, for all know that drink of any kind in such quantities as Mr. Weston was taking is decidedly wrong. There were also unmistakable signs of a breaking up of his legs, which seem always to have troubled him, and necessitates his trotting very near half the time. I do not mean to say for one moment that Mr. Weston is not a good walker. For 100 miles he is a walkist; but when it is necessary to turn the Hippodrome into a hospital it is time to stop, for none can consider it walking; it savors too much of what the cotton plantations were once represented to be. A LOOKER ON.

BOAT RACING AT YONKERS.

Exciting Contest Between the Palisade and Vesper Clubs—Lively Controversy Over a "Skin" Barge—An Unexpected Victory for the Palisades.

An interesting and well contested race in eight-oared barges came off at Yonkers yesterday afternoon between picked crews of the Palisade and Vesper Boat Clubs of that city. It was the second of three annual races to be rowed between those clubs for a champion pennant. The course to be gone over was three miles straightaway, from a point opposite Riverdale to what is known as the sunken dock, foot of Lamartine avenue.

As is generally the case in those friendly contests between local organizations, there was a wide difference of opinion among the members of the respective clubs as to what constitutes fair play. In this instance the Palisade boys were reluctant to select the same barge they suffered defeat in last year, and accordingly concluded to meet their rivals on this occasion in what they considered a more advantageous craft, loaned them for that purpose by the Resolute Club, of Carmansville. When this became known to the Vespers, they determined not to be "caught napping," and within the last few days Thomas Fearon, one of their number and a well known adept in boatbuilding and boatracing, constructed a new boat for the race, and which is so extremely light as to be denominated

A "SKIN" BARGE.

At this proceeding the Palisades were thoroughly disgusted, their president having denounced it as "an outrage." It is true that the Vespers offered, by way of compromise, to exchange the barges in which both crews rowed at the last annual contest, but the Palisades indignantly deny that the offer was extended in good faith, since it was proposed only by individual members and not by the Club itself. In this controversy public sympathy evidently inclined toward the Palisades, who, although evincing admirable pluck and perseverance, had hitherto proved themselves unable to successfully contend against the superior tact and dexterity of their competitors at the oar. This can scarcely be wondered at when it is considered that Messrs. Fearon, MacFarlane, Keeler and Van Winkle, of the Vesper crew, are rated among the best amateur oarsmen in the country, and went into the race yesterday, carrying with them the prestige of having never known defeat. Under this combination of adverse circumstances the Palisades had little hope of coming off victorious, but were determined to keep at least within hailing distance of the "skin" barge, if muscle and courage were to be counted on for the accomplishment of that object. This was the condition of affairs when the time appointed for the contest had arrived. The following are the names, positions and weight of the members of the competing crews:—

THE RACE.

Shortly after three o'clock two steamboats, heavily laden with the respective friends and admirers of the rival crews, fully one-half of which were of the softer sex, proceeded down the Hudson to the starting point at Riverdale. The competing oarsmen, with their barges, were already on the ground and being subjected to a scrutiny which was considerably intensified by the multitude of spectators on board the steamers. Many were the suspicious glances cast at the Vesper's new barge, which no one appeared competent to classify or draw the line of distinction between it and a shell. After some little delay the barges got into position, the Vespers, having won the choice, taking the inside. When the word was given both boats effected an even start and shot rapidly northward amid the deafening cheers of the spectators. To the agreeable surprise of their now doubly enthusiastic friends, the Palisade crew held their barge steadily bow and bow with the Vespers for about half a mile, when the former slowly forged ahead, increasing their speed so that when opposite Mount St. Vincent they led the Vespers about three boat's lengths. At this time the Palisades were rowing thirty-six strokes to the minute and the Vespers thirty-eight. The Palisades still continued to increase the distance between them and the Vespers, and passed the winning point about five lengths ahead of their competitors, amid the wildest enthusiasm. The time occupied by the Palisades in going over the course was nineteen minutes, the Vespers following them fifteen seconds later.

The officers of the respective clubs are as follows:—Vesper—William S. Carr, President; William Macfarlane, Captain; Otto Sarony, Lieutenant; W. W. Flagg, Secretary, and James T. Howland, Treasurer. Palisade—M. F. Rowe, President; H. M. Underhill, Captain; W. H. Stewart, Lieutenant; R. G. Jackson, Secretary, and Edward Underhill, Treasurer.

THE BIGLIN-TEN EYCK RACE.

Postponement Until To-Day in Consequence of Rough Water.

NYACK, N. Y., Oct. 7, 1874.

The Biglin-Ten Eyck boat race of three miles for $1,000, to be rowed here on the Hudson this afternoon, did not take place, owing to rough water. The river was smooth enough early this morning for the contest, but at nine o'clock the wind blew fresh from the eastward, with signs of an increase, which came along in due time, rendering the question of racing out of consideration. The postponement was a serious disappointment to two or three thousand persons who came to the scene from New York and up the river in the steamboats Americus, Magenta, Virginia Seymour, Wyoming, Boardman and lesser craft; but generally they were quietly inclined and left without any disturbance, many of them meaning to return by the early train, as the race will be called at eight o'clock to-morrow morning. Ex-Commodore William Voorhis, owner of the schooner yacht Tidal Wave, has accepted the position of referee and stakeholder, and will require the principals to adhere strictly to the articles of agreement.

There has been considerable betting among the New York delegation that has decided to remain over, the rates being $20 to $14 on Biglin, which are liberally accepted. Both men are in the best possible physical fix and will row a cracking race, Jimmy Ten Eyck declaring that if "Biglin beats me he'll have to pull faster than he ever did before."

THE BRIDGEPORT REGATTA.

Fine Day, Fine Breeze and Fine Sport—A Day of Pleasure for Connecticut Boatmen.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 7, 1874.

Yesterday, the first day of the Bridgeport regatta, so long looked forward to, was a success in every particular. The course laid out for the boats was off Seaside Park, triangular in shape and embraced a distance of fifteen nautical miles. The hour appointed for the start was eleven o'clock in the morning, but from some cause a tedious delay ensued and the boats did not get off until nearly two o'clock. A good breeze blew from the southeast and everything was favorable for the boats to show their best sailing qualities. The Sound for some distance around was thickly dotted with sail boats, from which spectators viewed the race, and there was a large number of people along the shores and at the park, many of the principal shops having suspended work that their employés might view the scene. The prizes offered aggregated $320. There were five classes of the first, third and fifth classes sailing to-day. Two prizes were offered in each class; first, $100 and $50; second, $90 and $40; third, $50 and $30. The second and fourth classes will sail to-morrow. Following are the names of the boats entered, their owners and length:—

Name.	Owner.	Place.	Length, Feet.
FIRST CLASS.
C. D. Smith	C. D. Smith	Bridgeport.	40.02½
Mary Ella	W. A. Cummings	Stamford	39.10½

Sarah E. Lockwood	H. E. Lockwood	Greenwich.	35.03
Elbert T.	Wm. McGuire	Stamford	31.03
Mary Alice	Theo. Davis	Stamford	33.11

Sassacus	Harry Finch	New Haven	20.00
Modesty	P. R. Picket	New Haven	19.11½
Go Softly	Captain Handly	Westport	19.11½

The boats in all the classes were given a flying start, indicated by the firing of a gun from the judges' boat, the steamer Washburn, stationed to the westward of the Bridgeport harbor light. An allowance of one and a half minutes to the foot was made. The hour of starting was a quarter to two o'clock, and the time required to sail twice over the triangular course an average of about two hours. Following is the actual and corrected time of each boat:—

Name.	Actual Time. H. M. S.	Cor'ted Time. H. M. S.
FIRST CLASS.
C. D. Smith	1 38 50	1 46 20
Mary Ella	1 39 53	1 46 45
George Milner	1 46 14	1 52 14
Sarah Lockwood	2 17 29	2 17 29
Elbert T.	Withdrawn.
Mary Alice	Started, but did not return.
THIRD CLASS.
Ripple	2 14 19	2 14 19
Americus	Broke down.
FIFTH CLASS.
Hornet	1 58 24	1 58 24

Pilgrim	2 15 04	2 16 41
Peerless	2 13 16	2 14 42
Go Softly	Broke down.
Sassacus	Withdrawn.

The C. D. Smith and Mary Ella won easily in their class, their fine behavior over the entire course eliciting pleasing comments. The Ripple had it all her own way in the third and in the fifth race the Hornet and Modesty had but little to contend with. The race closed to the satisfaction of all as the shades of night set in.

The judges were J. M. Samis, Captain William Peck, Captain Joseph Prindle, Mr. Frank Bradbury, Mr. Samuel Wilmot. Timer, Henry Bishop.

YACHTING NOTE.

There will be a race this morning, at half-past nine, from the foot of Court street (Brooklyn Yacht Club course), between Kaiser Wilhelm and Emma T., for the champion pennant won by Emma T. last week.

THE NATIONAL GAME.

A Magnificent Contest on the Union Grounds—The Atlantics Make It Warm for the Boston "Reds."

The Atlantic and Boston nines attempted to decide the ninth game of their championship series yesterday afternoon, on the Union Grounds, but the fielding was so sharp on both sides that, notwithstanding ten and a half innings were played, neither side could claim the victory. Rarely, indeed, have two nines put forth such efforts to win a ball as did these two yesterday. It was the general impression among the knowing ones, and those who are not so very knowing, too, that the Bostons would have a perfect walk-over; but the event proved this an error.

In the match yesterday the Bostons experienced great difficulty in hitting Bond, while the Atlantics batted much better than usual. In the field sharper work was never done. Not a single "red-legged" chap succeeded in reaching his first base on an error, for the only errors committed on the Atlantic side are charged to Fleet, and none of these were serious. In the sixth inning the Bostons succeeded in getting in a run and tying the game. But for a piece of stupidity in McGee, who failed to run the bases properly, the Atlantics would have won the game on the seventh inning. As it was ten innings were played, and the Atlantics were at the bat for the eleventh time, with a man on first base and two hands, when the umpire found it necessary to call the game on account of the rain, which was falling quite fast.

Some wonderful fielding was done by Sweezy at second base and Ferguson at third, while Pearce filled the bill to perfection at short stop.

The score is as follows:—

DEPARTURE OF THE LORD MAYOR.

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon there was a large and fashionable assemblage of ladies and gentlemen gathered at the Cunard dock, Jersey City—the scene of so many partings and meetings—to bid farewell and God speed to the Hon. Maurice Brooks, Lord Mayor of Dublin; the Lady Mayoress, Miss Brooks, his charming daughter, and Miss Manning; Dr. J. B. Hamilton, of Her Britannic Majesty's Thirty-fourth regiment of foot; Mr. H. H. Foster, honorary secretary of the Irish team; Mr. J. Wilson; Mr. Edward Lefroy, editor of the Dublin Freeman's Journal, and Alderman Manning. There were many tearful eyes and many heartfelt wishes among the ladies and gentlemen on the wharf as the Abyssinia moved out from her dock and swung around to meet the William Fletcher, her accompanying excursion boat. On the Fletcher were many ladies, friends whom Miss Brooks had met in her brief but pleasant stay in the American metropolis. Handkerchiefs were waved, cheers were given, and as the noble steamer drew out into the stream the band, under the direction of Keating, played sweetly the air of "Auld Lang Syne." Among those who participated in the farewell to the Lord Mayor and the ladies and gentlemen with him was the Rev. Mr. Flattery, who had been in former days a friend of the Lord Mayor, and who during the stay of the latter gentleman was most energetic in his hospitalities to the distinguished party, whose representatives did so nobly at Creedmoor. From the deck of the Abyssinia there was seen a display of handkerchiefs as she passed away into the gray clouds of the bay, and all those who saw the tokens gave a hearty God's blessing to our late guests and departing Irish friends.

POLICE TRIALS.

Fifty complaints against delinquent policemen were listened to yesterday by President Matsell, in the court room at the Central Office. Andrew F. Clarke, of the Nineteenth precinct, was charged by Captain Gunner with being intoxicated. The accused failed to appear and his case was sent to the Board. Two similar complaints were made against Officer Quinn, of the Twenty-seventh precinct. His case was also forwarded to the Board. Officer Riply, of the Twenty-eighth precinct, was charged with arresting a woman in Varick street and making a false complaint against her. Sergeant Downes was the principal witness against the officer, and, curiously enough, the evidence adduced in the matter showed the sergeant to have been the one who ought to be on trial. The woman was drunk and abusive, but when arraigned in the station house for some reason the sergeant would not detain her. She confessed to the complaint clerk yesterday, during the progress of the trial, that she was drunk at the time of the arrest.

Grammar School No. 45, West Twenty-fourth street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, Primary Department, of which Miss S. L. Coles is principal, has just been reopened, the building having undergone a complete restoration. New furniture, heating apparatus and class rooms have been added, which makes this now one of the model schools of the city.

Coroner Croker yesterday held an inquest at the Morgue on the body of John Doyle, a laborer, who died in Bellevue Hospital on Monday night. Doyle, while intoxicated, went to the roof of his residence (four stories), No. 613 Greenwich street, and, falling asleep, rolled off at two o'clock in the morning, thus receiving a compound fracture of the skull and other injuries, from which he died.

Julia Hagan, aged thirty-one, residing at No. 328 East Thirty-third street, narrowly escaped being killed last night by falling from the second story of her house to the ground. Her dress catching on an open shutter broke the fall, but as it was she sustained very serious injuries. Intoxication caused her to lose her balance. She was removed to Bellevue Hospital.

The Fire Commissioners did very little at their meeting yesterday morning. Andrew McDevitt, of Engine No. 13, was tried for neglect of duty and fined five days. Thomas Batterbury, of Engine No. 10, was arraigned for slapping an officer on the back, and the charge was dismissed, as the policeman confessed that he had received no fatal injuries. Robert Douglass, of Engine company No. 16, was reprimanded for careless driving.

The counsel for the defence of Mrs. Sarah E. Merrigan, indicted for the murder of Miss Margaret Hammill, has been notified by the District Attorney, that the trial will be called in the Kings County Court of Oyer and Terminer, before Judge Tappen, on the 26th inst. Insanity will, it is said, be the line of defence.

At a late hour on Tuesday night Michael Brockett, aged fifty-two years, residing at No. 11 Harper's court, and James Morrissey, sixty-six years old, of No. 224 York street, walked off the wharf at the foot of Jay street and stuck in the mud of the river. The tide was out at the time, and there was not more than two feet of water, but the mire was several feet in depth. The unfortunate men, who had been drinking deeply in a neighboring saloon during the evening, called loudly for help. They were both fished out by citizens, and every effort was made to resuscitate them. Morrissey died during the night, and Brockett is in a precarious condition.

The dyke will be 2,000 feet long, and built in an average depth of 7.20 feet at mean high water. Depth enough will be thus obtained in the channel to float ships of any draught of water.

Walter Sweet, a fine young son of Dr. Sweet, of Newark, was thrown from a horse yesterday forenoon. The animal dashed off at a violent pace, dragging the boy head downwards and foot in stirrups, thumping his head on the cobble stones. The poor boy's brains were literally battered out. Of course life was extinct before the horse was stopped.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

Quiet Restored in Wall Street and a Slightly Improved Condition.

NO RAIDS YESTERDAY.

The Redemption of Bank Notes Soon To Be Resumed.

GOLD STEADY—MONEY UNCHANGED

WALL STREET,
WEDNESDAY, Oct. 7—6 P. M.

The stock market to-day was quiet, and drifted along undisturbed by even less than the usual number of rumors. Operators who were demoralized by the sudden and sharp decline and the violence of the attack of yesterday recovered their tone and courage, and the process of speculation indicated no greater change than that which attaches to extreme caution. Prices generally opened at the closing figures of last night, and in exceptional instances a trifle better. From these points there was a perceptible improvement throughout the day, save in Erie, which lost ⅛ per cent. No bearish feeling was at any time apparent or found expression in the sales at the board. The disposition seemed to be to let take care of itself, at least for the present, and it was intimated by more than one person familiar with the affairs of the street that there was safety in this inactivity, inasmuch as the experiment of yesterday had demonstrated a feverishness which it would not be wise to aggravate. Whether this power to depress prices will continue to hang over the Stock Exchange, and whether it is based, as is claimed by many, on an outside commercial situation inconsistent with the buoyancy of the stock market, is a question that can only be answered by future events. The bulls feel encouraged by the very palpable fact that when the market is let alone a good buying process is developed, which enables them to relinquish their stocks at a fairly remunerative profit, while every blow like that of yesterday tends to impair the confidence of outside buyers, frighten them from the street, destroy the chief source of profit and leave the principals in the speculation to fight out the battle alone or abandon the struggle altogether. Such, however, are the common experiences of Wall street, and it looks very much as if we were to witness an oscillating market for weeks to come.

REPORTED FAILURES.

Near the close of the market and before the influence could be felt on prices, if it should be felt at all, reports were renewed concerning the failure of two dry goods houses in this city and one in San Francisco, the aggregate of liabilities being placed at $1,200,000.

THE RANGE OF PRICES.

Stocks showed a firm undertone from the beginning, and, although attended by the usual fluctuations, improved, with but a single exception, that of Erie, which yielded to sympathy with the foreign market. Erie strengthened during market hours to 32⅛, but subsequently declined to 31⅝ at the close. The opening was made at 32. This will account for the decline on this side. The five o'clock P. Old North Carolinas were 20⅛ to 24, and new 12⅛ bid, 6 being the bid for the three series of special tax varieties. Old South Carolinas closed at 24 bid, new July and January issues being 17½ a 18½ and April and October 17⅛ bid. Plain old Tennessees were 72 to 73, new offering at 80, ex coupon, old being 54 to 57, and new offering at 56½, new series closing at 54 to 56. Virginia consols were firm at 53⅛ a 53½ and deferred issues steady at 9⅜ a 9⅞.

THE UNITED STATES TREASURY.

The internal revenue receipts to-day were $336,000. The customs receipts were $473,000. The Treasury received $126,000 national bank notes for redemption; also $40,000 called bonds, making a total of June calls of $2,162,000. It is stated by telegraph from Washington that the redemption bureau will not resume the redemption of national bank notes until probably the 20th inst. The redemption might be recommenced now, but the Treasury desires to perfect such arrangements as will make the business continuous without the risk of again suspending. The Assistant Treasurer to-day paid out $32,000 on account of interest and $19,000 in redemption of five-twenty bonds.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

Cotton Firmer for "Spot"—Flour Steady—Wheat Firm—Corn Higher—Oats Firmer—Pork Easier—Lard Steady—Groceries Firm—Freights Quiet, but Firm—Petroleum Dull—Naval Stores Firm—Whiskey Easier.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 7—6 P. M.

There was rather more animation in the merchandise markets to-day, though the same irregularity was still apparent, and changes were numerous and in some cases radical. On 'Change a fair demand prevailed for wheat for shipment to Great Britain, but business was retarded to some extent by the firmness of holders, particularly of the better sorts of spring. Corn was in better request and higher, with fair sales, mainly for shipment. Oats were likewise firmer, with a fair demand. Whiskey was more freely offered and prices were a shade off. Pork was dull and prices were rather lower—under what was understood to be forced sales. Lard was exceptionably quiet. Freights were strong for grain accommodation on the berth. Cotton met with a better demand and the market was firmer for "spot" lots, while futures were unchanged. Groceries were dealt in to a fair extent and the market ruled firm throughout. Petroleum was dull but not essentially changed in value. Naval stores were moderately active and closed firm.

COTTON.—The demand for "spot" cotton has shown a slight improvement for export and consumption, and for ordinary, good ordinary and low middling quotations are advanced ⅛c. per lb. "Futures" were operated in moderately, and exhibited no essential change in value. We quote:—

FREIGHTS.—We have yet to report a quiet market for berth freights, with rates not essentially changed. Tonnage for charter attracted some attention from the grain, petroleum and cotton interest, and those closed were at rates exhibiting very little change, excepting for grain, which ruled in shipper's favor. The engagement were:—To Liverpool, by steam, 44,000 bushels of grain at 8d.; 1,000 bales of cotton at ⅜d.; small lots of provisions at previous rates. To London, by sail, 8,000 bushels of wheat at 5d. To Glasgow, by steam, 24,000 bushels of grain at 5½d. a 5¾d.; 1,000 bbls. flour at 2s. 4½d. The charters comprise:—A Norwegian bark, hence to Cork for orders to the United Kingdom, with 3,500 quarters of grain, one-third in bags, at 4s. 3d.; an Austrian brig, hence to Constantinople, with 13,009 cases of refined petroleum, at 22½c. and £5 gratuity; a Norwegian bark, hence to London, 3,200 bbls. capacity, with cargo of refined petroleum, at 3s. 6d., and privilege of rosin at 2s.; a Norwegian bark, from Philadelphia to Cork for orders to the United Kingdom or Continent, with 1,900 bbls. of refined petroleum, at 4s. 6d.; a British bark, about 550 tons, from St. Marys to a port in the United Kingdom, with resawed lumber, at £5 5s.; a Norwegian bark, of 664 tons, from Norfolk to Cork for orders to the United Kingdom or Continent, at 7-16d. if to the United Kingdom or Havre and 15-32d. if to any other Continental port, with 1-64d. off if direct; a Norwegian bark, from Savannah to Cork for orders to the United Kingdom or Continent, with 1,700 bales of cotton, at 7-16d.; a British bark, of 803 tons, from Savannah to Liverpool, full cargo of cotton, at 7-16d.

MOLASSES.—We have no particular change to note in the market, which has been quiet. Refining qualities were inactive for lack of offerings, and the few transactions were confined to small lots of grocery grades and domestic. PETROLEUM.—The market for refined was inactive, with values exhibiting little or no change; quoted at 12⅛c. a 12⅜c. for delivery balance of month. THE REPORTED DRY GOODS FAILURE.

The report of the failure of a large dry goods house, which created some excitement in Wall street yesterday, proves to be only an unfounded rumor. The firm were called upon by a HERALD reporter and made a fair statement of their business. They requested his attention to the activity, and at a late hour, of their clerks and porters, who were engaged in packing and shipping goods, and one of the firm himself was in his shirt sleeves, as busy as the rest. The firm stated that they had heard the rumor, but as yet had not had time to investigate it. In regard to the failure of a large San Francisco house nothing definite has yet been ascertained. In consequence of the rumors, however, the dry goods market is in a feverish condition.

TRIPLE SHEET.

New York, Thursday, October 8, 1874.

From our reports this morning the probabilities are that the weather to-day will be cloudy, with rain.

THE REGISTRATION of our city voters so far indicates a large State vote compared with that of 1873; but still a short vote compared with that of 1872.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN EXPEDITION to Turkestan will doubtless soon be called for, the barbarous tribes of that immense country having established a reign of anarchy therein, and particularly against the Russians.

GANGS OF RUFFIANS, it is reported, take possession of the emigrant trains on the Central Pacific Railroad, between Ogden and San Francisco, and plunder and maltreat the helpless passengers without a show of remonstrance or objection from the conductors. What has the Central Pacific Company to say in answer to this charge? for it must be answered or it will be accepted as true by the travelling public.

ROCHEFORT IS PAYING THE PENALTY of his unfortunate notoriety in being driven from pillar to post in the pleasant city of Geneva. The hotel keepers are disposed to be hospitable enough, but their other guests threaten to desert them if they give shelter to the famous "Lanternier;" so he is banished from hotel to hotel and finally into the streets, where he is hooted by the mob. He ought to imitate the example of great princes and travel incognito.

THE STRIKING FEATURE in the session of the Episcopal General Convention yesterday was the sermon of Bishop Selwyn, of Lichfield, England. The reverend prelate discussed at length the necessity of the Protestant pastors taking measures to advance the missionary work and prevent the advance of creeds not in sympathy with Protestantism. The words of such a prelate should be heeded. When the missionary efforts of the Roman Church lead to the conversion of men like Lord Ripon it is time for Protestants to be alert.

AT THE MEETING of the Baptist Missionary Union, which was held yesterday, Dr. Fulton delivered an eloquent address upon the pregnant theme, "Concentration of effort necessary to denominational success." A man must be passionate and earnest to succeed in the Church, and the time had come for a resolute struggle to save souls. Dr. Fulton called attention to what the Roman Catholic Church was doing in the missionary cause, and he implored the members of the Union to imitate the discipline and energy of that body. In the evening the members showed great enthusiasm in their work, and sang the beautiful hymn "Work, for the night is coming."

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS COMMISSIONERS decided one or two points yesterday, settling the interpretation of the law but exposing its injustice to a deserving class of claimants. The most numerous sufferers by the depredations of the Confederate cruisers were the captured seamen who were thrown out of employment, lost their wages, and were detained in foreign lands. The machinery of the law is adapted to the cases of the heavy claimants, such as shipowners and insurance companies, and it operates as a substantial denial of justice to the seamen. The law will probably be amended at the next session of Congress.

Mr. O'Conor's Second Letter to Reverdy Johnson.

Mr. O'Conor's admirers, and they comprise all lawyers entitled to stand in the higher ranks of the profession, will feel new pride in his intellect in perusing the vigorous letter which we print to-day. His personal friends will be gratified to find that advancing age brings no decay of his great faculties, which shine forth on this occasion with the unabated splendor of his most brilliant efforts. His legal admirers could hardly find in the whole record of his forensic arguments a more marvellous specimen of acumen conveyed in felicitous diction than is presented in the letter which we lay before our readers. Besides the abilities of a consummate lawyer and logician Mr. O'Conor has a mastery of apt legal phraseology which makes him a model in that kind of style. Perhaps no lawyer of his time save Webster, and in the opinion of many competent judges not even Webster, has surpassed him in that kind of diction of which the great lights of English jurisprudence provide the examples—examples which few American lawyers have tried to emulate, and none, unless Mr. Webster be an exception, with such admirable success as Mr. O'Conor. The exquisite finish given to legal arguments by this great accomplishment strikes the spectator like the last polish and keen edge of the weapons employed by a different order of combatants. Mr. O'Conor is also the greatest living master—he deserves to rank with the greatest masters that have ever lived—of the veiled and courteous sarcasm which reminds one of the famous executioner whose wife boasted that he could take off a head with so neat a stroke that the spectators could hardly perceive that it was severed from the trunk until it dropped by seeming accident. Some of Mr. O'Conor's nicest exhibitions of this kind of skill will be recognized in his present letter; but obvious motives of courtesy forbid us to point them out. But the glittering polish of controversial weapons is something separate from the sureness of stroke which leaves an antagonist disabled on the field.

The public must not allow itself to be dazzled by the brilliancy of Mr. O'Conor's controversial tactics. The real merits of the controversy may be discovered by men less wonderfully equipped for such gladiatorial exhibitions than this consummate master of legal fence. Mr. O'Conor's arguments must be weighed in the same impartial balance as those of inferior men. Some parts of his answer to Mr. Johnson seem triumphant, but the public and the legal profession may wisely suspend their judgment until Mr. Johnson shall have been heard again. The strength and stress of Mr. Johnson's last argument rested on the assumed consequences of a reversal by the President of his first decision. Mr. O'Conor argues, with great force and cogency, that those apprehended consequences would not follow; that all private rights which accrued under the Kellogg administration would remain untouched if he should be deposed. Until a successful reply is made the opinion of Mr. O'Conor on this point would seem to be correct; and if so Mr. Johnson's position would seem materially weakened, if not quite undermined. The authorities cited by Mr. O'Conor on this point seem very pertinent, and we are curious to see how Mr. Johnson will parry them.

It may perhaps seem presumptuous in us to hold decided opinions on points which divide these great lights of our jurisprudence. But, since they differ, our freedom of judgment is not restrained by authority, and when learned doctors disagree reason and not authority must be the umpire. Before proceeding to state additional reasons in support of the views we expressed at the outset of this controversy we trust we may be pardoned for criticising one point made by Mr. O'Conor in the letter printed to-day. He says that the constitution "confers no express power on the President or even on Congress; it is the 'United States' that must protect the true State governments 'from domestic violence.'" Mr. O'Conor seems to have overlooked one of the most important, and, as regards this controversy, most pertinent provisions of the federal constitution. We claim no originality for the point we are about to state. It is often presented in the works of Mr. Calhoun, with an emphasis which attests the importance which that profound constitutional reasoner attached to it. The point is that every undistributed or unassigned power conferred on the federal government is vested in Congress. The provision which that great statesman and masterly logician perpetually quoted in support of this view is this:—"Congress shall have power to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the United States, or any department or officer thereof." The argument which Mr. Calhoun deduced from this part of the constitution admits of no successful answer. All the implied powers of the federal government, all powers vested in the United States without defining the mode of their exercise, belong to Congress. No other department or officer of the federal government can take any step toward putting them in execution until Congress shall have passed laws conferring the requisite authority. This seems so plain on the very face of the constitution that the opinion of Mr. Calhoun, who laid such a constant stress upon it, can add nothing to its intrinsic force. Every power conferred on "the United States" or on the federal government without defining the department or officer charged with its execution is a power vested in Congress, and can be exercised only in conformity with laws passed by that body. If Congress had passed no law relating to the guarantee against domestic violence the President could have taken no action whatever on the subject. This power of interference is precisely what Congress has clothed him with, neither greater nor less. It is within the constitutional competency of Congress to repeal that law and enact another enlarging, abridging or modifying the power of the President in such cases at pleasure. Congress is the supreme authority in this whole class of questions, and one of the most useful services Mr. Calhoun ever rendered to our constitutional jurisprudence consisted in his establishing this doctrine on impregnable grounds. The complete subordination of the President to Congress in executing the federal guarantees is a point which both Mr. Johnson and Mr. O'Conor have lost sight of in this controversy, although it is the main hinge of the question. When the constitution pledged "the United States" to protect each State against domestic violence it clothed Congress with a supreme discretion as to the manner in which the pledge should be fulfilled. We have long been convinced that Mr. Calhoun's arguments on this point admit of no valid answer. The proper hinge of the controversy is not, therefore, what the President is bound to do under the existing law, but what action Congress ought to take in view of the new complications.

We think we can successfully defend the position taken by the HERALD when Kellogg was suddenly ousted by the Penn movement. Our position was that the President was bound to support and reinstate Kellogg in spite of the flaws in his original title. We have seen nothing to shake our confidence in the grounds of that opinion. In the first place, it is the dictate of common sense, and common sense is the foundation of most opinions which a public journal is compelled to form on the spur of a sudden occasion. But careful investigation convinces us that in this instance, at least, common sense and the constitution are in perfect accord. The very purpose of that part of the constitution invoked on this occasion was to prevent changes by force and violence in the government of a State. Revolutionary violence, such as the supporters of Penn resorted to, is the precise thing against which the constitution meant to set up a barrier. On this point also we prefer to cite Mr. Calhoun rather than any other authority, because of his great and deserved weight in the Southern States. He discussed the various questions growing out of the federal guarantees to the States with greater logical precision than any other statesman or any jurist who ever undertook to handle the subject. The quotations which we will insert from the sixth volume of his works are a correct statement of the purpose of this part of the federal constitution, and they fully vindicate the position taken by the HERALD at the time when the recent Louisiana disturbance arose. If there is some repetition in the extracts it shows how deliberate were that great statesman's convictions on this point. Speaking of a faithful enforcement of the guarantees Mr. Calhoun said:—"The great and leading effect would be to put an end to all changes in the form of government and constitution of the States originating in force or revolution." And again:—"But very imperfect, indeed, would their task have been lett if they had not adopted effectual means to guard all the parts against the lawless shocks of violence and revolution." And still again:—"But while the framers of the federal constitution thus protected the system against changes by the rude hand of violence and revolution, they were too experienced and wise to undertake to close the door against all changes." We could multiply such quotations to almost any extent, and could match them with abundant language of the same purport from the Federalist. Unless Hamilton, Madison and Calhoun totally misconceived the purpose of the federal guarantees they were intended to prevent changes in the State governments by force. The Penn movement in Louisiana overthrew a de facto State government by force, and we still believe the HERALD was right in the prompt stand it took in favor of peace and order against revolutionary violence.

Labor Troubles in Pennsylvania.

The trouble between the Welsh and Irish miners in Moosic has necessitated vigorous action on the part of the authorities. A number of men supposed to have been concerned in stopping the work were promptly arrested and carried off to prison by Sheriff Whitaker and his posse. No resistance was offered to the representatives of the law, but the feeling against the Welshmen seems to have been deepened by the action of the authorities, and some apprehension is felt lest, as soon as the Sheriff's posse withdraws, the disturbances will be renewed in an aggravated form. It is to be hoped that these fears are unfounded and that the miners will recognize the folly of their attempt to dictate to the company who shall be employed or discharged. The attempt of men of one nationality to exclude men of another from the right to labor must in the end react unfavorably against those making it. In addition to its wickedness, in the present case it is remarkably silly and without any of the usual justifications of national jealousies. But the mutual dislikes of men who have found a home in this country must be restrained within the limits of legality, and any attempt to use violent measures in the settlement of disputes must inevitably call for the prompt and vigorous interference of the authorities. So far the arrangements for preserving the peace in Moosic merit the highest praise, and we hope to see such precautions adopted as will save the district from the disgrace of mob violence. An exhibition of resolution on the part of the authorities is the best guarantee of peace and order, as the evil-disposed will think seriously before venturing to come into deliberate conflict with the law backed by adequate force.

Count Von Arnim's Imprisonment.

A lively sensation, intensified by mystery, has been created throughout Europe by the imprisonment of Count Von Arnim on the charge of secreting important papers of which the German government wishes to gain possession. There is more curiosity about the contents of these documents than on any other point, for Bismarck's great anxiety to get hold of them indicates that they are of a compromising character, and that their publication would be especially awkward for him. Von Arnim has been subjected to strict prison discipline as a means of extorting either the papers or a statement of the place where they are secreted; but if he has fortitude enough to stand out the arrest and imprisonment will prove a great mistake. The missing documents have been so sensationally advertised that if they should ever be published they will be universally read with eager interest, whereas they might otherwise have attracted little attention. If they contain damaging facts Bismarck is taking the surest way to spread and extend the injury unless he can extort their return by the severity he is practising on Von Arnim. A Berlin despatch states that they have probably been conveyed to England for safe keeping, and, if so, they are beyond reach or recovery, unless the contumacious Count can be reduced to submission. It is rumored that the Emperor William, who is at Baden, had no knowledge of the arrest and has required explanations. Should the papers be published it may turn out that concealment of their contents from the Emperor was more important to Bismarck than concealment from the public.

Words with Friends.

The deep interest which the HERALD takes in the fortunes of the new administration organ, The Republic, leads us to be somewhat sensitive as to the tone of some of its comments. The Republic, as our readers well know, is the accepted organ of the President, and although somewhat indefinite in the expression of its views on leading themes, like the third term, we recognize the wisdom and gallantry which mark its devotion to the party and true party interests. In yesterday's issue there was an article defending Collector Arthur, Surveyor Sharpe, Naval Officer Laflin, District Attorney Bliss, and Davenport, the enfant terrible of the Ring, which should have been printed in letters of gold and distributed to every postmaster in the land. We admit the argument might be made that nothing could be more ungracious than to defend an official like Collector Arthur, for instance, whom no one had ever attacked. Something, however, must be permitted to the new-born enthusiasm of a journal which comes bounding into the arena full of love and loyalty, and willing to live or die, but preferably to live, for the administration and the incumbent at Washington.

But it is not pleasant to be told by a journal that we are striving to serve, as earnestly as we serve The Republic, that the reason the HERALD does not approve the "bosom friendship" principle of politics which now controls the Tammany Ring is that its editor has not been nominated for Mayor.

If the editor of The Republic were an Englishman simply sojourning in New York to study the institutions of the country we could understand how such a mistake could be made. But he is an American and should know better.

There is no fact more clear to the mind of the editor of the HERALD than this—that the journalist who enters politics commits suicide. The founder of this journal, nearly forty years ago, in laying down the principles which have never ceased to govern the HERALD, said, in the first number that was ever published:—"We mean to be perfectly understood on this point, and, therefore, openly disclaim all steel traps, all principle, as it is called, all party, all politics. Our only guide shall be sound, practical, common sense, applicable to the business and bosoms of men engaged in everyday life. We shall support no party, be the organ of no faction or coterie, and care nothing for any election or any candidate, from President down to constable."

These golden words were written in 1835. They control the policy of the HERALD now as absolutely as when they were written by its venerated founder. The HERALD of 1874 cares no more for the mere evanescent John Kellys and John Morrisseys of this day than the HERALD of 1835 cared for the ruling, but now long forgotten, spirits of the Tammany of that day. When The Republic, in the excess of its administration zeal, intimates that the editor of the HERALD would have supported John Kelly had that "bosom friend" "thrown the handkerchief" in the form of a nomination to office it utterly fails to comprehend the inexorable policy of this journal.

We recognize a contract with the people—to serve them with honesty, enterprise and candor. We find the news if news is to be found on this revolving globe. We comment upon it in a spirit of the utmost courtesy and sincerity. The people respect this purpose by giving the HERALD the premiership in American journalism. We could certainly make no baser response to this confidence than to go gadding around among the "bosom friends" of Tammany for an office that has been filled by a Havemeyer and may be filled by any vagabond in the city, or, indeed, for any office under the government.

Office to a journalist is suicide. Bryant saw this and declined a first class mission. The founder of the HERALD saw it and rejected the French mission when it came from Abraham Lincoln. Neither Greeley nor Raymond would see it, and to them the end was very sad. For ourselves we cherish the tradition of the HERALD—"We shall support no party, be the organ of no faction or coterie, and care nothing for any election or any candidate, from President down to constable."

THE JEROME PARK RACES.—With splendid weather and a track in good condition six spirited races were yesterday contested on the American Derby. Interest was lent to the events of the day by the unexpected victory won by old Fadladeen in the first race for a purse of $800. Preakness was the favorite and the winner scarcely quoted. The Hunter's Stakes, too, were won unexpectedly by Madge, one of the well known Australian stock. The day's sport was brought to a close by a spirited steeplechase, won by Trouble, a descendant of Mickey Free. The contest between this horse and Vesuvius was very close and exciting. Fortunately the light rain in the afternoon delayed long enough not to interfere with the enjoyment of the sport.

THE LORD MAYOR OF DUBLIN and several members of the Irish team sailed for Ireland yesterday on board the Abyssinia. His Lordship was attended by numerous friends, and carried away with him the regrets of a large circle of acquaintances. During his stay in this city the Lord Mayor received the customary civic hospitalities and acquired the esteem and friendship of those with whom he came in contact. General regret has been felt at the shortness of his visit, and we hope that the example set by the honorable gentleman will be followed by other civic dignities of the Old World.

A FRESH EXAMPLE of the heedless stupidity, or revolting inhumanity, of our police, is presented in the case of Thomas Weiger, who died at Bellevue Hospital from injuries received in some unknown manner. Coroner Eickhoff is to hold an inquest, and it will probably appear that the poor man, who was given to intoxication and had fallen from a shed, had his ribs and collar bone broken by the fall before he was taken up by the police and arraigned on a charge of drunkenness. It is a piece of criminal and brutal carelessness that injuries so severe and which resulted in death should not have been discerned by the policemen. Such instances of revolting neglect of the ordinary offices of humanity are quite too common in our police force.

The Worcester Convention.

The republicans of Massachusetts, for the first time in several years, had a quiet and unexciting State Convention yesterday. During the war period and the reconstruction period the great feature of these annual gatherings was a trumpet-tongued speech by Charles Sumner, calling on the faithful to gird up their loins for the conflict. Yesterday there was a commonplace party speech by Mr. Dawes, the President of the Convention. For the last two or three years the inevitable Butler, that enfant terrible of the Massachusetts republicans, has raked the fires under the overboiling caldron of strife by pressing his claims to the Governorship; but this year he sent a letter declaring that he was not a candidate, thereby divesting the Convention of all interest by withdrawing the great bone of contention. It was, accordingly, as flat and tame as any cut-and-dried affair could well be. Talbot had a majority on the first ballot, and his nomination was thereupon declared unanimous. The liquor prohibition movement is likely to be feeble and insignificant; the democrats, who have put up an excellent candidate for Governor, are in a hopeless minority, and the republicans will sail to success on stagnant water. Butler's pet protégé, Collector Simmons, will find nothing to disturb his serenity, and he need borrow no trouble about the canvass. It is to be regretted that parties are not more equally divided in the Old Bay State, and that there is nothing to infuse life and animation into the political contest. So tame an election has no tendency to educate the people on public questions.

The platform of the Massachusetts republicans is a string of platitudes. It protests against inflation, as if Grant's veto and the great abundance of money for this fall's business had not killed inflation stone dead. It denounces the White Leagues of the South, but it would have done better had it denounced the abusive and oppressive mongrel governments which provoke a suffering people to resist. The best proof of a good government is a contented people. The platform recommends honesty in public stations, but every party makes these cheap and lavish professions. It flatters the laboring population, but does not tell what it proposes to do for them. It declares that the republican party repudiates and punishes its own scoundrels, but we wish this might come true of its rapacious and remorseless carpet-bag scoundrels in the South, not to mention some others who are, as yet, "unwhipped of justice." Its sixth and last resolution is a fulsome laudation of Governor Talbot, who was last year thought adequately rewarded by the nomination for Lieutenant Governor, became Governor by Mr. Washburne's election to the United States Senate, and is now renominated for the Chief Magistracy of the State. Like their political brethren in most of the other States the Massachusetts republicans are silent on the third term question.

The Comptroller and the Record Job.

In fighting the City Record job the Comptroller does good work for the people and deserves a medal, even though it should only be of leather made from the hide of an animal raised on Ryan's farm. In the old Ring days the Transcript was the organ of the municipal magnates. There was something gorgeous about the Transcript, like Tweed's diamonds and the Americus badges. It flashed before the eyes of the people now and then in the tax levy for hundreds of thousands of dollars. It was a placer yielding enormous nuggets of pure gold, and people regarded the mysterious organ with reverential awe. To be sure, it bore a sort of mythical character. Few persons saw it or knew whence it came or whither it went. But the boldness of its raids on the public treasury entitled it to the respect that one feels for such magnificent operators as Dick Turpin and Swartwout. The City Record is the organ of the new Ring. It is a petit larceny swindle on the citizens of New York. The idea of its origin was no doubt suggested by the knowledge of the Transcript plunder; but the boldness that marked the Transcript job is lacking in the City Record. The latter is run by a supervisor, who is paid five thousand dollars a year. This office pensioned off first a clerk of a legislative committee on account of a republican Senator, and next a former secretary in Mayor Havemeyer's office. Every dollar paid out of the public treasury for this organ, whether for supervisor, assistants or printer, is an imposition upon the taxpayers of New York. Its publication is a direct injury to the city, since no person sees the paper, and advertisements for bids for labor, supplies or loans on city bonds and stock that appear in its columns are thrown away. If Mr. Green, by fighting the publisher's contract, can destroy the City Record the people will be very well satisfied. As to the matter of expense in publishing the city advertising, if the proper authorities will send to the HERALD the notices of bids for public works, supplies and loans, we will publish them as news free of charge. They will thus secure a circulation somewhat larger than they would have enjoyed in the City Record, and the small leakage from the treasury that now drips into the City Hall cellar will be stopped.

A NEW MUDDLE IN LOUISIANA has arisen out of the address of the conservative State committee, which has provoked Governor Kellogg to make the reply telegraphed from New Orleans and printed this morning. He accuses the conservative committee of ripping open old sores and misrepresenting his own action. We do not see that his reply has any tendency to produce the harmony which he professes to desire. The arrangement agreed on in the conference was not intended to silence political discussion, but only to secure a fair election and an honest counting of the votes. The McEnery party and the Kellogg party remain as free to expose and denounce each other as if no such arrangement about the registration and voting had been made. It is ridiculous and childish for Kellogg to complain that he continues to be criticised by the conservatives. It is an election that is to take place, not a compromise. One party or the other will be outvoted, and each is entitled to use all the customary weapons of political warfare. Neither has bound itself to relinquish any other advantage than the dishonest one of cheating at the polls. Kellogg is very foolish in claiming exemption from the ordinary attacks made on public officers by their political opponents.

Buttons.

Commissioner Disbecker proposes to modify the "buttons" order, so far as the police are concerned. Uniforms, under his revised rule, are to be worn when on duty, by the regular platoons and the reserves, and by all policemen whenever there is occasion to suppose that the services of the off-duty men may be required. When not on duty, with the above limitations, private clothes may be worn; but men on the force, whether uniformed or in citizen's dress, are to be subject to police regulations and to do duty when required at all times. Commissioner Disbecker and Commissioner Matsell differ in their views of the new proposition. Disbecker pronounces the rule requiring the policeman to shut himself up at all times behind his buttons as tyrannical; while Matsell believes that the policeman must be "an automaton" if the discipline of the force is to be made perfect. Disbecker has a poet's view of liberty and tyranny, inspired by his literary labors on the City Record. Matsell, who is almost as old as Havemeyer, cannot get rid of the impression that the police force of New York ought to consist of one hundred good and true men, armed with rattle, lantern and blunderbuss. Whichever rule may eventually become permanent the force should be required to obey without murmuring. Policemen in New York are not like the military force in France or Germany. They can resign at any moment if they do not like the occupation, and thousands of men can be found ready to step into their places. When shields were first proposed the men objected, and when uniforms were introduced there was nearly a revolution in the force. Now comes this new opposition to orders. After all, why should the policeman be ashamed of his buttons? They ought to be evidence of good character. And do they not make their wearer the hero of areas and doorsteps—the admiration of nurses and the pet of cooks and housemaids? A sensible policeman should be as proud of his uniform as a peacock is of his tail or as Havemeyer is of his famous aerial ladder.

THE BRIDGEPORT REGATTA came off yesterday, and, in spite of some bungling in the arrangements, was interesting and spirited. The course was laid out so that the spectators could watch the progress of the race from the beautiful Seaside Park. At Yonkers the boat clubs Vesper and Palisade rowed for the champion pennant, and quite unexpectedly the Palisade crew came in ahead.

He wrote this romance, therefore, for her fortune, and certainly she is well provided for.

Alleged Brutal Conduct of United States Marshals—Horrible Treatment of Prisoners.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 7, 1874.

Yesterday a reporter interviewed Messrs. Renfroe, Bullock, Childs and P. A. Hillman, who were brought here from Sumter county, charged with murder. They give a dreadful account of their sufferings and the brutal treatment to which they were subjected in the journey to this city. They were handcuffed and chained together after the arrest was made and put in charge of a squad of federal soldiers, who, they allege, were instructed to shoot them upon the slightest provocation. They were taken to the cars at Demopolis, and along the route from that point to Montgomery they were subjected to who were freely admitted to the car in which they were. When remaining over awaiting connecting trains they were put into vile dens, reeking with filth, and were denied water and meals and prohibited from communicating with their friends or counsel. The Marshal who arrested the prisoners had a warrant for the arrest of William Hillman. Failing to find William he took P. A. Hillman instead, and when the latter asked by what authority he was arrested the Marshal replied, "It don't make a damned bit of difference. We'll take you along now and get William some other time."

The Difficulties in Sumter County—A Statement from Official Sources.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7, 1874.

Attorney General Williams has received from official sources, which he considers entirely reliable, the following statement as to the difficulties in Sumter county, Alabama:—

The white people have an organization throughout the country known as the White League. They are determined that the negroes shall not vote at the coming election unless they vote with the League. To effect this everything is done to intimidate the black people. The two most active republicans in the county named Billings (white) and Ives (colored) have been assassinated since the 1st of August. These murders have had a very great effect upon the colored people. To keep up the fear among the blacks the whites get together almost every day and night and ride the roads in squads of from thirty to fifty men, armed with shotguns, pretending that the negroes are arming and gathering to attack the white people, which is not the case. There have been no parties of negroes of any strength together.

LOUISIANA.

Response of Governor Kellogg to the Address of the Conservative Committee.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 7, 1874.

The following letter is in reference to the address of the Conservative Committee which was telegraphed from here last evening:—

STATE OF LOUISIANA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 7, 1874. }

Hon. R. H. MARR, Chairman Democratic State Central Committee:—

SIR—I have just read with surprise and regret the address of the committee of which you are Chairman. The occasion of your address is the announcement of your acquiescence in the proposition with regard to the method of holding the coming election recently agreed to in conference both by the Republican State Central Committee and by your committee. I ask you to contrast the manner and spirit in which this proposition has been received and acted upon by these committees respectively. The republican committee, actuated by a spirit which was naturally supposed to inspire such measures of adjustment, refrained from any allusion to the recent occurrences in this city and State, and abstained from any denunciation of their political opponents. In your address you take occasion to recapitulate old charges of oppression and corruption brought against the republican party and the present State government, notwithstanding the uncontradicted and incontrovertible statements in my published address of the 30th ult., show that the present State government is not responsible for the present State debt or taxation, but has reduced both, but also shows that for most of the debt and taxation, both State and city, the democratic party is directly accountable.

You complain that the police juries of the parishes are swelling the taxes, but you fail to state that the taxes are higher in some of the strongest democratic parishes. You assert as a reason for the recent disturbances that we have been inciting hostilities between whites and blacks and that arms had been and were being furnished the latter. This I emphatically deny and challenge you to produce any proof of the assertion. On the other hand you are fully aware that large quantities of arms have been shipped to this State for the purpose of arming the whites against the blacks, with a view not only to intimidate the colored people, but also to overthrow the constituted authorities of the States. But perhaps the most extraordinary statement contained in your address is the following:—

"Hence the Presidential proclamation was no sooner heralded but he (referring to myself) managed to inaugurate conferences to adjust the troubles. A committee of conference, selected by him met a similar committee selected by Governor McEnery and Lieutenant Governor Penn."

So uncalled for, so groundless is this statement that I cannot for a moment believe that those who represented your party in the committee of conference were consulted before this publication was made. I was not present when a committee from your side first called upon Mr. Packard and others at the Custom House directly after the events of September 14, though I was much gratified at the prospect which the conferences so held seemed to offer of a fair registration and of an election uninfluenced by violence, intimidation, or fraud. This I have from the first desired and still earnestly wish to see. I took part for a few moments by invitation at two or three of the discussions entered into with this object in view, but the statement that I managed to inaugurate the conferences is entirely untrue, as is also the assertion that I selected the committee who acted in behalf of the republican party. I refrain from saying more on this point except that I and my friends will faithfully carry out the terms of the agreement we have entered into, which, I desire to remind you, was strictly confined to matters of registration and election; and I trust your party, who virtually assumed the responsibility of the violence and intimidation heretofore existing in the State, will carry out your part of the agreement by suppressing the same. In your address I perceive you say—"We merely pledge ourselves to lend our aid and influence to preserve order, provided the agreement is in its spirit fairly executed in all respects."

In the formal protocol signed on the 28th of September your representatives said the committee representing the conservative people's party pledge themselves to cause all violence and intimidation of any kind to cease throughout the State, and to assist the constituted authorities in maintaining peace, and in insuring a strictly fair and impartial registration and election. Permit me to say, in conclusion, that the whole tenor of your address, which assumes toward the republican party a tone of superiority and acrimony, ill becomes the subject or the occasion.

Very respectfully, WILLIAM PITT KELLOGG.

THE MINERS' STRIKE.

Hostilities Suspended by the Arrival of the Sheriff's Posse.

IRISH MINERS ARRESTED.

Serious Outbreak of the Strikers Anticipated at an Early Day.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 7, 1874.

Sheriff Whitaker, with a posse of some sixty men, went to Moosic this morning to protect the miners disposed to work in the colliery of the Glenwood Coal Company. Affairs at the mine were about the same as yesterday. At the heading or opening of the drift a few loiterers were found, but the main body of the malcontents did not put in an appearance. The first duty of the posse was to clear the works of the idlers, and admit the Welsh miners who were ready to enter the mine. Fifteen or twenty of them went to work, and the colliery was once more in motion after a suspension of about five weeks. The officers of the company had made out a list of thirty-three of the ringleaders in the strike, and the posse commenced making arrests, and up to the leaving of the train this evening thirteen men (all Irish) had been taken into custody and conveyed to this city, where they were examined before Alderman Parsons, who remanded them to the County Prison for further hearing. Among those arrested there are but few of the principal strikers or leaders, the most prominent malcontents having disappeared to parts unknown at the first appearance of the officers of the law. Nearly all of them were taken at the mine opening, and they appeared to be there more from curiosity than a sinister design. The men were captured or remonstrance, and seemed to regard the whole proceeding as a matter of course. After the men had been cleared from the vicinity of the mine buildings the police began to scour the surrounding woods, and managed to gather in a few stragglers who were endeavoring to make their escape to the mountains. All the movements were made with promptness, and within two hours after the arrival of the Sheriff the most profound order prevailed in and around Moosic. Thus far all has been plain and easy sailing; the men have been arrested quietly; there has been no disturbance of any kind and peace seems to prevail. But those who best understand the situation are by no means disposed to consider the difficulty as even near the door of settlement. One of the officers of the company remarked to-day, "The trouble is but just beginning;

WITHOUT THE SLIGHTEST RESISTANCE

THE WORST IS TO COME."

Talking with some of the poor miners in a casual way, one of them ventured to remark, "Bedad, somebody is going to be hurted before this thing is over." The general silence which prevails in Moosic is considered as ominous of impending evil. The bitterness of national prejudice continues to crop out strongly, and the feeling of hostility to the Welsh miners has been greatly intensified by the scenes of to-day. Still there is no open expression of repugnance, but there is on the faces and in the eyes of the Irish an appearance which does not presage the kindliest feelings nor indicate a disposition to peace. But there will be no conflict with the officers of the law. The grudge is against the Welsh mine boss or superintendent and his countrymen who are willing to work under him, and when the restraining force of police is removed the discontented Irish miners will seek the day of their revenge. The feeling has extended to the surrounding country, and the excitable Celts are already preparing for the anticipated fray. Between twelve and one o'clock this morning a large

MEETING OF IRISH MINERS

was held in Doak's Hall, Pleasant Valley, about three miles from Moosic, at which incendiary speeches were made and one of the speakers declared that 700 men were ready to take part if the struggle is precipitated. It is believed that desperate men from Schuylkill county have already assembled in the vicinity of the scene of trouble and only await a chance to bring on a conflict. The neighborhood of Moosic has a reputation none of the best and the community contains very rough and reckless spirits, many of whom have very little compunction about shooting a man from behind a stone wall or tree or beating him to death when overpowered by numbers. It is but recently that an assistant mine boss, working for the company which runs the Glenwood mines at Carbon Hill, about a mile from Moosic, was shot dead in his tracks and his murderers never discovered. Murders have not been unfrequent, and brutal beatings are of almost daily occurrence. It is the knowledge that has been fully aroused which causes so much apprehension regarding the difficulty at the Glenwood mines. Important developments may take place to-night or to-morrow morning.

The heavy rain which has prevailed all day appears to have dampened the ardor of the strikers somewhat, but with pleasant weather they will, no doubt, occupy the woods in force, and make matters unpleasant. The company are still firm in their determination to sustain the mine boss, and the strikers are equally resolute in their declaration that they will not work under Davis. The Glenwood mine is run by the Erie Railway Company.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

Decision by the Court of Commissioners of Important Points—The Claims of Seamen for Wages and Losses—Defects of the Law.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7, 1874.

Several interesting points were raised in the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims to-day.

R. M. Corwine, of Washington, submitted the question that where several parties are concerned in the same claim one or more may present a petition, leaving each claimant to furnish his own proofs within the limitation of law. The reasons assigned for this question were that as in the case of indemnity for seamen's wages and effects, being in many instances for small amounts, while some of the parties might be in this country to represent themselves and their companions in the form of petition, others might be at sea for long voyages without such advantage. Therefore it was but just that their interests should be protected in their absence in the manner proposed. The Court, in response, delivered an opinion to the effect that such an arrangement was inadmissible under the law creating the Court. Three of the Commissioners were on the Bench to-day; but the two who were absent had previously expressed themselves favorable to Mr. Corwine's proposition. Mr. Creswell, government counsel, agreed with the Court, but said any papers or petitions could be filed with the clerk subject to demurrer. In this the Court silently acquiesced, and therefore the question may again be considered when a case shall be made up and presented.

CLAIMS OF SEAMEN.

C. C. Duncan, Shipping Commissioner, of New York, with the permission of the Court, made a statement in behalf of the sailors. His object was if possible to secure to them the indemnity for wages and effects to which they were entitled. Many of these sailors were now and would be absent from the country for a long time, and, therefore, could take no measures in their own behalf. The Shipping Commissioners were under the direction of United States Circuit Courts, which could act as the custodians of the moneys awarded and pay the same to the interested parties on the presentation of the proper proofs. Such sums as should not be paid out would, of course, be returned to the Treasury.

The Court, while appreciating the suggestion and expressing its sympathy for that class of men, said it could not authorize such an arrangement, as the law was specific in its provisions.

Mr. Creswell thought the remedy in the case presented would properly be with Congress, as the law under which the Court was organized provided that the awards should be certified to by the Secretary of State, and by him sent to the Secretary of the Treasury, with whom rested the duty and responsibility of paying the awards to the parties respectively designated.

Mr. Duncan remarked that he did not expect the Court to make such an arrangement as he had suggested, but brought the subject to its attention in the hope that a provision to meet the case would hereafter be made by Congress.

Charge of Judge McKean to the Grand Jury—The Acts of the Legislature and the Institution of Polygamy To Be Looked After.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 7, 1874.

Judge McKean, in his charge to the Grand Jury to-day, calls their attention to the acts of the past Legislatures unlawfully disposing of valuable tracts of land and extensive water privileges and timber lands to Brigham Young and other persons. In consequence of these enactments settlers have been forcibly dispossessed of their rights, and even murdered or thrown into the Jordan River. The Legislature also enacted that resolutions were equally valid with acts, and under this rule the Appropriation bill, vetoed by the Governor last winter, was passed as a resolution and taxes unlawfully imposed upon the people.

He calls attention also to the other acts of the Legislature, among which is the transfer of the property of deceased persons to a perpetual immigration fund; the establishment of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and the powers conferred upon it, and the treasonable resistance of the Mormons to the United States authorities. He urges upon the jury to look carefully into the institution of polygamy and to bring some of the most influential polygamists to the bar of justice; to bear in mind that the doctrine of polygamy goes hand in hand with the murderous doctrine of blood atonement, and to look more particularly after the principals than the agents.

AMUSEMENTS.

Italian Opera—La Figlia del Reggimento.

Donizetti's opera, written for the Opéra Comique, Paris, was produced last night for the purpose, we suppose, of giving Mlle. Marie Heilbron, the Marie of the occasion, an opportunity to display her talents as a bravura and, as the Germans would say, "coloratur" singer and as a soubrette. In both respects she gained the desired point. Her Marie is full of clever acting and brilliant singing. The time honored numbers assigned to the prima donna were given with an effect and dash that enhanced their value considerably in the minds of the musicians present. Signor Benfratelli made a very pleasing Tonio and sang his music commendably, and Signor Scolara acted the part of the gruff old sergeant to the life. The success of Mlle. Heilbron was all the more remarkable, considering that we have had such representatives of the role of Marie as Thillon, Nau, Pyne, La Grange, Piccolomini (the best of all), Laborde, Cora de Wilhorst, Parepa Rosa and Kellogg. But in regard to such a success we may safely say, Le jeu ne vaut pas la chandelle. The time has passed when such a baby opera can satisfy the public. With all Wagner's faults we must concede him the honor of giving the world an idea and taste in operatic matters more in consonance with æsthetic rules than any of his predecessors. He has written music in accordance with such rules, and he has explained it also. "The Daughter of the Regiment," at this day, must take its place with "Madame Angot's Daughter," or some work of the kind. It cannot be galvanized into grand opera. The public want something more substantial in the line of operatic food than lyric candy. Verdi, Meyerbeer, Marchetti, Gounod and others have the public ear at present, and opéra comique productions should be relegated to their proper sphere. "Aïda" will be repeated on Friday and "Faust" will be the attraction at the matinée on Saturday. The next Sunday operatic concert takes place at Booth's Theatre.

Musical and Dramatic Notes.

Donadio, the new prima donna, who appears in "The Barber" next week, sailed for America at one day's notice.

Scott's "Fair Maid of Perth" has been dramatized at the Standard Theatre, London, under the title of "Hal o' the Wynd."

Wallack's company will be reinforced to-day on the occasion of the Mark Smith benefit by Mlle. Aimée and Barney Williams.

A new comedy, "Les Samedis de Madame" has been lately produced with much success at the Palais Royal. It is from the pen of Messrs. Labiche and Duru.

A statue has been erected to Balfe in the vestibule of Drury Lane Theatre, London. It was sought to place this memorial to the Irish composer in Westminster Abbey, but this honor was denied.

As composer as well as virtuoso Signor Braga, the violoncellist, occupies the highest rank. The engagement of such a renowned artist with the Di Murska troupe cannot fail to produce a profound impression in musical circles.

Ferdinand Hiller, the veteran composer, is sojourning at Baden-Baden in the charming and poetic residence of Mme. Clara Schuman, and the latter is taking the waters at Toplitz, being a great sufferer from rheumatism in her arms.

The Nevada News says:—"Actors in the Silver Dell Opera House don't much object to having rocks and things chucked at them, but when a Chinaman comes into the gallery and fires his pistol into the dragon in the pantomime it is time to get real mad."

Miss Sophie Flora Heilbron, the young English pianiste, makes her début at Steinway Hall to-night, assisted by the following artists:—Miss Ida Rosenbergh, Signor Ardavani, H. Brandt, Master Lichtenberg, C. Verner, A. R. Parsons and Signor Agramonte.

Miss Neilson, the favorite actress, arrived yesterday on board the Russia. The night preceding her arrival in port Miss Neilson thoughtfully gave a reading for the benefit of the Liverpool Seaman's Orphan Institute and the Seaman's Orphan Institute at Staten Island. Governor Hoffman presided and made a neat and appropriate speech. The programme of the entertainment included "The May Queen," "The Courtship of Helen," from the Hunchback; "The Golden Bee," "The Knight and the Lady," "The Charge of the Light Brigade." The affair passed off very pleasantly and to the great satisfaction of the passengers. Something over $250 in gold was collected, which sum will be equally distributed between the above named institutions.

THE LATE MARK SMITH.

Arrangements for the Funeral—The Memorial Benefit.

The committees having the matter in charge have decided that the funeral of the late Mark Smith, whose remains arrived from Paris yesterday, will occur on Sunday next, October 11, at half-past one P. M., at the "Little Church Around the Corner," Rev. Dr. Houghton pastor. The following gentlemen have been chosen pallbearers:—A. Oakey Hall, Lester Wallack, Whitelaw Reid, Max Strakosch, William Stuart, John Gilbert, Charles Fisher, William Winter, H. D. Palmer, H. C. Jarrett and Douglas Taylor. The music at the church will be under charge of Messrs. Colby and Thomas. The members of the theatrical profession, the Masonic fraternity, and the Manhattan, Lotos and Arcadian clubs are invited to attend.

The Mark Smith Memorial Benefit, which takes place this afternoon at Booth's and Wallack's theatres, promises to be a very great success. The sale of seats for the former establishment was very heavy at a late hour last evening, but the house is very capacious and all places, save in the gallery, are reserved. It should be borne in mind that the doors open at both houses at twelve o'clock and the performances commence at one o'clock. This early hour is made necessary by reason of the great length of the programme.

THE DEATH OF THOMAS WEIGER.

A Mystery To Be Explained.

To-day Coroner Eickhoff will investigate the circumstances attending the case of Thomas Weiger, who died on the 3d inst. in Bellevue Hospital from injuries received in some manner then unknown. It subsequently appeared that Weiger, a man some sixty years of age, who was of intemperate habits, worked in a coal yard at No. 3 Oak street, fell from the roof of a shed in the yard, and being taken up, was removed to the Fourth precinct station house, only a few doors distant. Captain Ulman and the sergeant in command, as well as several officers then present, considered that Weiger was intoxicated, as he appeared stupid, but made no complaint of being injured, although able to talk and make himself understood. After remaining in the station for an hour or two Weiger walked over to the Tombs with an officer, and on a charge of intoxication which was preferred Justice Flammer committed him for ten days. The prisoner remained in the Tombs for a day or two, and it was only when about to transfer him to the island that it was discovered that he was a more fit subject for the hospital than the prison. All this time, it appears, deceased had fracture of the collar bone and several ribs, but no one seemed to be aware of the fact. It will be the purpose of Coroner Eickhoff to ascertain whether Weiger received the fatal injuries by falling from the roof of the shed in the coal yard, or whether they were inflicted at some other time and place. With this view the Coroner has summoned Captain Ulman and several of his officers, some of the Tombs officials and also Justice Flammer.

THE GLENDENNING INQUISITION.

Sixty-two Witnesses for the Grand Inquest.

A Fervent Prayer in the Presbytery for the Accused Pastor—Mr. Miller Rehearses the Sad Story to the Judicial Committee—The Case To Be Reported To-Morrow.

The Jersey City Presbytery resumed their session yesterday morning. The opening prayer meeting lasted half an hour. The Rev. Mr. Munroe offered an earnest prayer for "Brother Glendenning," in which he cried out for "grace, mercy and peace" in the following words:—"O Lord, bring our afflicted brother out bright and shining from under the dark cloud which now encompasses him; give him that he may have strength to bear up and have courage under his afflictions, so that, lifted up by Thee, he may be at last restored to good standing in the Presbytery. Bless also, O Lord, the Prospect avenue church, which is sorrowing because of its pastor's affliction." Mr. Munroe and Mr. Moore will, it is believed, act as Glendenning's counsel in the coming trial. The Presbytery, having transacted all the routine business, adjourned till to-morrow morning, when they will receive the report of the Judicial Committee, known as the "Grand Inquest," now sitting at the Prospect avenue church in Glendenning's case. The committee will have to work hard, however, to-day to gather the testimony of the large number of witnesses who are to testify against the accused pastor. The evidence will be very voluminous, but it is believed the committee will be satisfied with the examination of about twenty witnesses.

Although the hour appointed for the session of the committee was four o'clock yesterday afternoon all the members were in the church on Prospect avenue by three o'clock. They were seated in the meeting room of the elders behind the pulpit, Rev. Dr. Imbrie was chairman, an affable, genial gentleman, whose connection with the case inspires the fullest confidence that justice will be meted out. At fifteen minutes to four a HERALD representative peeped into the church and found it empty. The committee were closeted in the meeting room. At five minutes to four Mr. J. Smith Miller and his wife arrived, as well as the following ladies and gentlemen, to give testimony in the case against the Shepherd of the Fold:—Mr. C. R. Miller, Mr. Huyler Demotte, Mr. Joseph F. Talson and son, Mr. Willard E. Dudley, ex-Mayor Sawyer, ex-Recorder Aldridge, Mr. Osborne, Mr. Charles Northrup, Mr. Albert Metz, Mr. Randall, Mr. Thorpe, Mr. Thatcher, Mrs. C. R. Miller, Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. Graves, Mrs. Metz, Mrs. Congar, Mrs. Bermingham, Mrs. Thatcher, Miss Jennie Miller, Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. Grattan, Mrs. Randall, Mrs. W. E. Dudley, besides a domestic in the house of Mrs. Miller. The entire number of witnesses offering testimony in the case is sixty-two. Among the important witnesses are Mrs. Bermingham and Mrs. Walcott, who sat at the bedside of poor Mary Pomeroy during her last terrible night upon this earth.

The first witness called was Mr. J. Smith Miller. He was sworn in accordance with the constitution of the Presbyterian Church, no person being present but him and the committee. The examination of this witness was very tedious, occupying two hours and a half. The evidence was written out by the Secretary of the committee, the President at the same time taking notes. Mr. Miller testified that Mary E. Pomeroy had lived in his family for eighteen years, twelve of which were passed in the house with himself and his wife; her father and mother were dead; she was born in Seneca county, New York; two years ago she became acquainted with the Rev. John S. Glendenning, who soon became a constant visitor at his (Miller's) house; for four or five months previous to Miss Pomeroy's death he called as often as three and four times a week and would remain sometimes till midnight, chatting with her in the parlor; witness never suspected anything wrong, for he thought that a pastor would be the last man to arouse suspicion; Miss Pomeroy was always carefully watched and guarded, and was never allowed to be alone in the company of any man but Glendenning; witness was particularly watchful over her because she was an orphan; she was of most exemplary habits and very talented; she gave lessons in music and became organist in Glendenning's church; Glendenning gave her numerous presents, including a pair of gold earrings, a pair of gold bracelets and an engagement ring, on which was engraved the words—"Two hearts in one;" this ring he afterwards took back from her on some trivial pretence a few months before her death, (Mr. Miller here exhibited some of the articles of jewelry.) On the Sunday night before Glendenning's arrest he escorted Miss Pomeroy home from the church after evening service. Mr. Miller then detailed the circumstances of the arrest of Glendenning on the charge of bastardy, the proceedings in the charge of seduction, and the suit for breach of promise of marriage.

Chairman—Have you the documents in these cases in your possession?

Witness—Yes, all but the affidavit in the breach of promise case; it is filed in the office of the Clerk of the Supreme Court at Trenton, but Mr. Linn, who was the counsel for the plaintiff, has written for a certified copy of it to Trenton; Justice Aldridge will produce the other papers when he appears before you. Mr. Miller detailed the conversations he had with Miss Pomeroy concerning her relations with Glendenning and his own interview with the pastor when the latter was arrested and brought face to face with the injured girl.

Mrs. Miller was the next witness called. Her testimony was a corroboration of that offered by her husband. The most striking part of it was her account of the interview between her and Dr. Hubbard, superintendent of the institution for foundlings in Clinton place, New York. She had called in company with Alfred B. Pomeroy at three institutions for foundlings in New York where she desired to have Miss Pomeroy's infant brought up, but the conditions were so exacting that she refused to accept them. When she called at the Clinton place institution and stated the object of her visit she was asked questions as to her place of residence, &c.; she was then informed that a gentleman had been there some weeks before making arrangements to have a young lady admitted into the institution, "as she was in trouble;" in the conversation which followed Glendenning was described so accurately that Mrs. Miller said, "Why, Doctor, you astound me; it cannot be;" to which the doctor said, "Well, then, you had better go and see the matron, and she will tell you, for she saw the man;" the matron's testimony of the fact proved to be stronger than the doctor's; Mrs. Miller went home and returned to the institution, bearing a photograph of Glendenning, which the matron at once identified, saying, "That is the man."

Mrs. Miller was here asked several questions by the Chairman touching her recollection of the actual conversation between her and those alluded to, and she replied that it was too vividly impressed on her mind to be easily forgotten. Her examination was conducted at great length, so that, owing to the lateness of the hour, nearly all the other witnesses left the church. Only three ladies and two gentlemen remained.

The examination will be continued to-day and brought to a close, as the secretary of the committee announced that it would not be necessary to call all the witnesses. The committee, it is but just to state, labored most indefatigably, and did not even adjourn for supper. Their session lasted seven hours without intermission. They are determined to expedite the business so that the case may be reported to-day to the Presbytery.

One of the witnesses, Mr. Talson, a venerable gentleman, said:—"Although I cannot conveniently attend to-morrow I will sink all other business, for this is a case where every man who has a family should sustain the innocent. My son, however, will be in attendance."

Another of the witnesses, Mrs. Bermingham, said:—"I wish they would call me to-night, for I can't well get away to-morrow, but I must try and come anyhow, for I can tell something about what poor Mary said to me on her deathbed."

Such was the conversation between the ladies and gentlemen who watched and waited patiently within the cold church building, on a gloomy evening, when the rain was drizzling outside. The usual prayer meeting did not take place. The jolly looking Teutonic sexton warned off all those who came for that purpose by saying:—"Dere vill pe no brayer here to-night. All volks vhat vants to bray go over to Mr. Gordon's." Mr. Gordon is one of the elders of the church and the bondsman of Glendenning.

THE SCANDAL IN LONDON.

The Moulton Statement Stopped by the English Telegraph Authorities—A Petty Censorship Revived—Newspaper Correspondents Apologize.

LONDON, Sept. 26, 1874.

On the arrival at Queenstown of every American steamer the correspondents of the leading London papers are in the habit of transmitting by telegraph the summary of news contained in the New York papers. Last week one or two of these correspondents wired Moulton's statement, which was duly distributed by the telegraph authorities. Subsequently, however, they judged that a good deal of the statement consisted of "objectionable matter" and other correspondence at Cork was stopped. The next morning the London papers were notified in a lengthy document that their correspondents had placed matter on the wires, as extracted from the American papers, relating to the so called Beecher-Tilton case, which could not be transmitted to London, viewing that it must pass through the hands of a number of respectable female clerks. The Post Office printed to the provisions of the act of Parliament, and added that it had been but on very rare occasions when the authorities had made use of their prerogative, but that in the present instance they felt justified to exercise their rights and inhibit the transmission per wire of the report referred to. Before, however, the inhibition was promulgated several journals had received their messages. Hence the telegraph department was only partly successful in exercising their rights of censorship over the press. A portion of the reports were printed in the Times, Standard and Daily News, who exercised their own judgment what to publish or what to suppress. But in these cases, I understand, the Cork correspondents were notified not to repeat the offence, and they in due course apologized for not having expunged from their reports the so-called "objectionable matter." Our authorities have evidently forgotten the Mordaunt divorce trial and the nature of the matter published after each day's proceedings.

LIFE OF ADMIRAL FOOTE.

Life of Andrew Hull Foote, Rear Admiral United States Navy. By James Mason Hoppin, Professor in Yale College. With numerous woodcuts, maps and plans, and a portrait on steel by Halpin. Crown 8vo, cloth, $3 50.

_ Sold by subscription. Agents wanted.

Admiral Foote's name is inseparably linked with some of the most daring and important achievements of the war, and this interesting record of his life, prepared by one who knew and loved him well, cannot but receive a hearty welcome from his countrymen, who remember with pride his patriotic devotion and his inestimable public services.

His life was one which may be held up before the youth of America as an example worthy of emulation. There is not a blot on his character. He was an unpretending, hearty, whole souled man, fond of a joke, relishing a good story and able to tell one, an excellent talker and blessed with a clear, ringing laugh, which it did one good to hear. His personal bravery was no less remarkable than his earnest Christian character. His sailors loved and trusted him. He asked his men to face no danger he did not share. He shrank from no duty, shirked no responsibility. Rising by merit alone from a subordinate position to the rank of Admiral he was always the same simple hearted, unpretending man, doing his duty for love of country and in the fear of God.

The importance of a career so noble in its influence upon youth can not be overstated; and the volume in which the story of Admiral Foote is told should be read at every fireside throughout the land. It will do more good than a million tracts.

The stirring events of the various cruises in which Foote took part against the slave traders, against the pirates of the West Indian seas, the daring capture of the "Barrier Forts" in the Canton River, and the later achievements in our own Western waters, constitute a narrative of extraordinary interest. The volume is embellished with a fine steel portrait of Admiral Foote, with maps and plans and many spirited wood engravings.

THE ELECTION LAW INDICTMENTS.

Captain Hart, of the Pacific Steamship Colon, Sues Rufus Hatch for Slander.

LAW COMMITMENTS FOR CONTEMPT.

William Percival was brought before Commissioner Shields yesterday and charged with having falsely registered his name as a voter in the Eighteenth district of the Third Assembly district. It having appeared in evidence that the accused had given his right address and was really entitled to a vote he was at once discharged.

Judge Blatchford sat yesterday in the United States District Court for the purpose of proceeding with the trial of causes on the Admiralty calendar. In consequence, however, of the engagement of counsel in other suits and courts the Judge was unable to enter upon the hearing of any case.

Deputy Clerk Stilwell, of the United States Circuit Court, has made out a new list of jurors to serve in the United States District Court, several of the old jurors during the past year having died or changed their residence from the city. It is often difficult, both in the State and Federal Courts, to secure the attendance of the necessary number of jurors, owing to the immense number of "excuses" made by the parties summoned, and which excuses are very frequently allowed by the Judges in the exercise of the discretion vested in them.

The one hundred drawn in the Court of Oyer and Terminer petit jury put in a prompt appearance at the reopening of the Court yesterday, but the most were equally prompt in making excuses. They looked like an exceedingly healthy body of men, but fully one-half had grievous stories to tell of chronic latent ailments. Judge Brady, as he did not need the services of one-half of them had full scope for the exercise of his natural kind-heartedness, and excused nearly all the applicants and discharged the rest till Friday morning.

Stephen M. Fish brought suit against the city for $125, alleged to be due him for services rendered by him to the Department of Buildings. The trial had hardly commenced yesterday in Supreme Court, Circuit, when, on application of plaintiff's counsel, a juror was withdrawn, thus ending the suit, for the present at least.

The wheels of justice still continue at a standstill in some of the courts, through lawyers not being ready to go on with their cases. Judge Van Brunt, holding Circuit, Part 2, of the Supreme Court, had to adjourn for this reason. Judge Donohue, holding Part 3 of the same Court, although his calendar is overrunning with cases, found the lawyers only ready for trial in one—a suit by Thomas Connor against the city for $84 for lighting street lamps, in which he got a verdict in his favor. Judge Monell, holding Trial Term, Part 1, of the Superior Court, called over his long calendar, but no one came up to time, and so he had to adjourn without doing anything.

A STREET CAR COMPANY MULCTED.

The particulars of the suit brought by Mrs. Jennie Twomley, of Troy, against the Tenth Avenue and Central Park Railroad Company, generally known as the "Belt Line," were given in the HERALD when it first came to trial about a year ago, when the jury disagreed. A second trial was finished yesterday in the Court of Common Pleas before Judge J. F. Daly. She was riding on a car of the road when a train on the Hudson River Railroad frightened the horses, at which she jumped out, breaking her leg, from the effects of which she was confined in the hospital here about a month, and was unable to do any work for eighteen months after going home. She sued for $10,000 damages. The defence was contributive negligence, inasmuch as the one passenger who remained in the car escaped uninjured. The testimony did not vary materially from that offered at the previous trial. A little episode occurred, however, between the opposing counsel, Mr. Dexter C. Hawkins, who appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. A. J. Vanderpoel, the representative of the railroad. The latter called the attention of the jury to the fact of disagreement of the jury at the previous trial.

"Yes, but they stood eleven for plaintiff and one for defendant," interrupted Mr. Hawkins.

"Well, that was a disagreement and that was all I set out to state," continued Mr. Vanderpoel.

"It is not all I wish to state," broke in the irrepressible Hawkins. "The twelfth juror would not give the plaintiff a verdict, because he was interested in a similar suit."

"That's false," said Mr. Vanderpoel.

"What do you mean by false ?"

"I mean it is a lie."

"Gentlemen, if you want to quarrel you must go out of the court room," interposed the Judge sharply, at which the two gentlemen simmered down.

The end of the case—and the jury was out but a short time—was a verdict for $5,000 for the plaintiff. This is not its final ending, however, as it was announced that the railroad company will appeal from the verdict.

VIOLATING ELECTION LAWS.

All of yesterday was consumed in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Judge Brady on the bench, hearing the argument on the motion to quash the indictments found against sixteen republican inspectors and supervisors of the last city election, charging them with violating the election laws. Ex-Judge Shipman and Assistant United States District Attorney Purdy appeared for the accused and Colonel Fellows and Mr. Wingate were associated with District Attorney Phelps in the prosecution.

On behalf of the motion only three points were raised. The first was that the localities where the alleged offences were committed were not sufficiently described, but simply specified as certain election districts of certain Assembly districts; that they could have specifically designated these places and should have done so. The second point was that the ballots and so-called semblance of ballots were not sufficiently described. For the concluding point it was urged that in two cases where four inspectors were jointly indicted for not canvassing the vote, it was not a joint offence, but several offences, and that they should have been severally indicted. The answer to these objections, which were designated as merely technical, was that the polling places were selected by persons specially designated for this duty and that they were sufficiently known; that the meaning of the word ballot is well known in the law, and that if four people agreed not to canvass the vote, but to proclaim a result, that this was a joint crime. Abundant authorities were cited on both sides, and, indeed, the array of law books was something startling. At the close of the argument Judge Brady took the briefs of the opposing counsel, and will doubtless give his decision on the reassembling of the Court to-morrow.

SUIT FOR SLANDER.

W. C. De Hart has instituted a suit for slander against Rufus Hatch, the alleged slander being a declaration by the latter that he was drunk on the bridge of the ship Colon, of which he was an officer. A motion was made yesterday on behalf of the plaintiff before Judge Donohue to remove the case from the Supreme to the Marine Court, under the statute making provision for the trial of this class of cases in the latter court. It was contended in opposition that the statement alleged to be slanderous was a privileged communication, made by Mr. Hatch, as an officer of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, to other officers of the company; that the case involved some very nice law points; that it was desirable to have the highest judicial determination, and that, if taken to the Marine Court, there could be no appeal except through special favor of the Court of Common Pleas. Judge Donohue took the papers, reserving his decision.

COMMITMENTS FOR CONTEMPT.

The case of the People on the relation of Charles Tull vs. Peter Kenny came up yesterday before the General Term of the Supreme Court on an appeal from an order denying a motion made by the defendant to discharge a final order adjudging him guilty of contempt in failing to appear before the Court on an order issued for his examination in supplemental proceedings, under the code of procedure. The defendant, in failing to appear for examination as a judgment debtor, was ordered to show cause why he should not be attached as for a contempt, and on the return day of the order to show cause a final commitment was issued against the defendant under the statute as for a contempt of Court.

Mr. William H. Gale, on behalf of the defendant, argued that under the statute no final order adjudging a party guilty of contempt would lie until the party was first brought before the Court under an attachment to be issued for that purpose, and that when brought before the Court the party had the right either to purge himself of the contempt or to deny it; that, if he denied it, that under the statute interrogatories should be filed, and the defendant had the right to answer them before the Court would have the right to adjudge him guilty of the contempt; that in the case before the Court the relator had failed to comply with the requirements of the statute, and that therefore the Court had no power to commit him for contempt.

On the part of the relator it was argued that under an order to show cause the Court had the right to adjudge the party guilty of contempt, and that in such a case the relator was not required to file the interrogatories provided for by the statute, and that interrogatories were only required to be filed where an attachment was issued in the first instance. The Court reserved its decision.

Before Recorder Hackett.

Forgery.

John M. Ralph pleaded guilty to forgery in the third degree, the charge being that on the 5th of September he forged the endorsement of G. R. Hendrickson to a check for $393 on the Hanover National Bank, drawn by Thomas Atkinson & Co. He was sent to the State Prison for five years.

False Pretences.

Henry West pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with obtaining seventy pounds of coffee from Frederick Bruske, on the 24th of September, by falsely representing that his name was Schwenbau, and that he transacted business in the Bowery. There were two similar charges against him. The punishment inflicted was three years in the State Prison.

Larcenies.

William H. Pearce, who on the 15th of September stole a gold watch and chain, valued at $150, the property of John Wolfe, pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny.

Henry Rohrs pleaded guilty to a similar offence, the allegation being that on the 16th of last month he stole a quantity of rum and gin, worth $30, owned by Julius Wittenborg.

William Pendegrast, indicted for stealing from the person of Daniel Johnson thirty-five cents, in currency, pleaded guilty to the offence.

John Andrew Herman, who on the 7th of September stole clothing and a revolver, valued at $52, from the house of John Hagerman, between 168th and 169th streets, Harlem, pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny.

The above named prisoners were each sent to the State Prison for two years and six months.

John Jennings, who was jointly indicted with John Jones and James Farrell, was tried upon an indictment charging him with being concerned in stealing four boxes of vermillion paint from the store of Melchior C. G. Witte, No. 92 John street, on the 7th of July. The proof against Jennings was that he offered one box of vermillion for sale to Philip Abraham at the rate of sixty cents per pound, the market price of the article being $1 75. The accused stated that he was employed by Farrell to sell the property on commission. After considerable deliberation the jury rendered a verdict of guilty of grand larceny. In the absence of the prisoner's counsel he was remanded for sentence.

Hannah Wilkes, who was charged with stealing wearing apparel, valued at $50, the property of May Harris, pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny. She was sent to the Penitentiary for eighteen months.

JEFFERSON MARKET POLICE COURT.

Before Judge Smith.

Pauline Levecque's Jewelry.

A sensation was created yesterday by the appearance in court of the recently arrived prima donna, Mlle. Pauline Levecque, who made a formal complaint of grand larceny against Louis Vion, lately a waiter in the Grand Central Hotel. Vion, who is a native of Canada and speaks French fluently, soon possessed himself of the special confidence of the lady and was intrusted with her jewelry for the purpose of having it deposited in the hotel safe. On his way thither he opened the box and abstracted a valuable diamond ring worth $600, the gift of the Emperor of Brazil. The theft was not discovered until after the lady had left the hotel. Vion was arrested by Officer Slevin, of the Fifteenth precinct, and confessed his guilt. He was fully committed for trial by Judge Smith.

Felonious Assault.

James Hughes, of No. 273 Broome street, charged Thomas Shepherd, of 91 Willett street, Brooklyn, with felonious assault. The two became involved in a quarrel, and Shepherd drew a knife and cut his antagonist in the face and thigh. He was held in $3,000 bail for trial.

Another Arrest.

Yesterday Officer Laird, of the Ninth precinct, succeeded in arresting Thomas Mayler, charged with being implicated in the robbery of Michael Small, who was attacked on Monday night in the White Star House, and robbed of his watch and fifteen sovereigns. He was held to bail in $2,000.

Alleged Larceny.

A young and rather honest looking girl, named Kate O'Brien, was arraigned yesterday, charged with larceny. She was employed to run errands for Mrs. Fannie McKinley, who keeps a store at 240 Fourth avenue. Mrs. McKinley missed $30 in money from her trunk. There was a five dollar gold piece among the money stolen, and this was returned to the owner by the girl, she stating that she had found it on the floor. On Mrs. McKinley's affidavit she was held in $2,000 bail to answer.

FIFTY-SEVENTH STREET POLICE COURT.

Before Judge Murray.

Watch Snatching on Third Avenue.

John Kelly, sixteen years of age, of No. 345 Ninth avenue, was charged with assaulting Mary E. Anderson, of the Occidental Hotel, corner of Bowery and Broome street, on Third avenue, yesterday, and then snatching from her bosom a gold watch, worth $150. She caught hold of him and prevented him running off with it. He then attempted to throw it toward three men who were standing near by, and who are supposed, from their actions, to be accomplices of Kelly. The complainant prevented one of these men for a time from taking the watch from Kelly, to whom she held on with desperate resolve until she was forced to let go by a blow on the side. Before an officer appeared Kelly and the other men had escaped; but he was subsequently arrested by Officer Mallen, of the Eighteenth precinct, and held for trial.

Havens, ordering him to pay Mr. Havens $4,000, the amount deposited on the very day the bank suspended. On the examination in aid of the execution it was shown that Mr. Dutcher had $20,000 in the National City Bank.

Divorced.

The report of the referee in the suit brought by John R. Muller against his wife Marietta, for absolute divorce, in favor of the plaintiff, was confirmed by Judge Pratt yesterday. The parties were duly married in 1858, in Monroe, Orange county, N. Y., but the following year she abandoned him, and is now living with one Daniel Cooper. No answer was put in.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Principals Not to Send Pupils on Errands—Contest Over a Proposed Increase of Salary—A Class for Deaf Mutes To Be Established.

The Board of Education held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon at their hall, corner of Grand and Elm streets, William H. Neilson in the chair. A large number of petitions from teachers for leave of absence, transfer, and other communications and reports were received and referred to the Committee on Teachers. Various bills were assigned to the Auditing Committee for examination.

Mr. Baker offered the following resolutions, which were adopted:—

Resolved, That the Clerk of this Board be and he is hereby instructed to notify the principals in all the public schools of this city that the pupils of the schools must not be sent, or permitted to be sent, on errands from the school premises during the continuance of the sessions of the schools.

Resolved, That the Committee on Bylaws of this Board be and they are hereby instructed to take into consideration and report to this Board at an early date upon the propriety of modifying section 61, article 1, of the by-laws, so as to permit the principals of the schools to send the janitors out of the building whenever any sudden necessity or exigency shall arise, and whenever so sent a minute of the same shall be entered on the visitors' book of the school, with the cause for such action.

Mr. Farr offered the following, which was adopted:—

Whereas the terms of office of the City and Assistant Superintendents will expire on the 15th inst.;

Resolved, That the Committee on Salaries be requested to consider and report what changes, if any, shall be made in connection with the filling of said positions.

An invitation to attend the distribution to-day of certificates at the Grammar School No. 29, in Greenwich street, was accepted.

A PROPOSED INCREASE OF SALARY.

The Committee for the Normal School submitted a report recommending the appointment of Professor Day to the chair of Natural Science at an annual salary of $3,500.

Mr. West moved to lay the report over, as this was an increase of $1,000. Down at the City Hall the authorities were reducing salaries, and it was not for them to increase any.

Mr. Farr explained that this was the salary paid to all the other teachers in the Normal College, and it would be simply an act of justice to Professor Day to place him on the same footing with the other teachers. However, as three members objected to the immediate consideration of the report and wanted time to look into the matter, it was laid over.

The Committee on the Nautical School reported that the Secretary of the Navy had detailed the St. Mary as a nautical schoolship for New York, and recommended the appointment of Lieutenant George H. Wadleigh as its executive officer, at a salary of $1,000. The action of the committee was indorsed.

The Committee on the Model School recommended Miss Laura Freund, Miss Frederika Constantine, Mrs. Catherine C. Coleman, Miss Caroline C. Jackson, Miss Barbara Nungasser and Miss Alice Neustadt as teachers. Adopted.

A CLASS FOR DEAF MUTES.

The Committee on Evening Schools was empowered to open a female evening school in the Twenty-third district. They also recommended that an evening class for the instruction of deaf mutes be established in school No. 40, in East Twenty-third street, as soon as thirty deaf mutes make application for it. Adopted.

The Committee on Teachers recommended several instructors for promotion, and their recommendations were adopted. Mrs. Frances A. Westburn was appointed principal of the primary school No. 66 and Miss Helen E. Boyce of primary school No. 6.

The Board then adjourned.

KILLED IN A HAY CUTTER.

Shortly before four o'clock yesterday afternoon Thomas Peirnen, thirty-three years of age, while at work cutting hay in the Eighth Avenue Railroad depot, corner of Fiftieth street, was almost instantly killed by being caught in the machinery. The body was taken to the Morgue and Coroner Croker notified.

EPISCOPAL GENERAL CONVENTION.

Opening Service and Sermon by Bishop Selwyn, of Lichfield, England—Organization and Election of Officers.

St. John's chapel in Varick street was thronged yesterday with an eager and worshipping assembly to engage in the opening services of the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The following bishops and presbyters participated in the morning services, which were prolonged until nearly two o'clock:—The Rev. Dr. Perry, Secretary of the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies, read the morning prayers; the Rev. E. J. Edmunds, of Lichfield, England, read the selection of Psalms for the day; the first lesson was read by Archdeacon Balch, of Huron, Canada, and the second lesson by Dr. Elgood, Canon of Montreal. The creed and prayers preceding the litany were recited by Dr. Ketcham, Canon of Fredericton, N. B., and the litany by Dr. H. C. Potter, of this city, Secretary of the House of Bishops. The communion service was read by Bishop Oxenden, of Montreal; the epistle by Bishop Whittingham, of Maryland, and the gospel by Bishop Courtenay, of Kingston, W. I. Bishop Selwyn, of Lichfield, England, delivered the sermon, and Bishops Lee, of Delaware; Greene, of Mississippi; Atkinson, of North Carolina; Potter, of New York; Clarke, of Rhode Island, and McCoskrey, of Michigan, conducted the subsequent part of the service, including the administration of the communion, in which a very large company of clerical and lay delegates participated.

THE SERMON OF BISHOP SELWYN

was an eloquent plea for the right of private judgment, but, at the same time, for obedience to constituted authority. His text was Acts, xv., 28—"It seemed good to the Holy Ghost and to us." We, he remarked, are laborers together with God; we are God's husbandry and He is the Lord of the harvest. The Church is a building grown into a holy temple, of which Christ is the Master and we are the workmen as well as the stones to be laid on the one only foundation, in whom we are builded together by the Spirit. The Bishop here referred to the labors of Paul and Barnabas and their readiness to go to the Council at Jerusalem with a Church difficulty. United work, he remarked, is the result of united councils. When the builders of Babel could not understand their language they left off building. Let all things be done here to edification, and let us mind the Master Builder. The pattern of things on earth was first conceived in heaven. It was no part of the apostolic plan that every man should build as he pleased. But let every man take heed how he buildeth, for the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is. I beseech you, said the Bishop, quoting the Apostle's words, that ye all speak the same thing and that there be no divisions among you. Paul, who might have had the right in his private judgment to reject the counsel of his brethren, did it not, for God is not the author of confusion, but of peace. The Bishop then referred to the diverse gifts of the Spirit to His people, and yet they are all the work of one and the self same Spirit for the good of the whole body, and that, by the mutual care of each for the other, we may all come into the perfect stature of men in Christ Jesus. But all of these would be of no avail without charity, which is the bond of perfection.

The Bishop urged the importance of prayer in the deliberations of this Council, and spoke of the privileges which belong to prayer. He then referred to the extent of the Church's bounds, on which the sun never sets; whose bishops number 160 and whose communicants are numbered by millions. The prayers of such a branch of Christ's Church, he remarked, cannot fail to be answered, provided only we ask according to the will of God. The Bishop hoped for another Lambeth Conference and for the unity of the Church. And let us, he said, be like minded, and if in anything we differ God shall reveal even this unto us.

ORGANIZATION OF THE CONVENTION.

After a brief recess the Secretary of the last General Convention, Dr. W. S. Perry, called the house to order, and after the delegates had presented their credentials and answered to their names, he declared the house ready for business. The Rev. Dr. James Craik, of Louisville, Ky., President of the last Convention, was then unanimously chosen President of this Convention. On taking the chair he thanked his brethren for this new expression of their confidence in him, but he had hoped that this duty would be placed on the shoulders of some younger man, but he yielded to the judgment of his brethren. "We have come to confer," he said, "on very momentous interests of Christ's Church; to remove obstacles to its progress in this land if there are any in the way, and to provide for its advance if we may. See to it then, brethren, that this holy city of our God receives no detriment. Inspiring as is this duty, it calls for charity, love to God and to men, true love to mistaken teachers of the truth, as well as to those who are its ablest defenders. I am sure," said the Doctor, "that you will perform this duty, looking to God for discretion. May the Spirit guide, strengthen and sustain you in all your work."

The Rev. Dr. Perry was then re-elected Secretary and he subsequently chose Dr. Williams, of Georgia, assistant.

THE RULES OF ORDER

in force at the last Convention were then temporarily adopted, and the amended rules provided by the last Convention to be acted on by this was made the special order for noon to-day.

A reception to the bishops and deputies, in the Bible House, was announced for Saturday evening next, after which the Convention adjourned until ten A. M. to-day.

THE CHURCH CONGRESS.

Concluding Session of the Protestant Episcopal Congress—The Meeting in Association Hall.

The concluding session of the United States Church Congress of the Protestant Episcopal Church was held last evening in Association Hall. Though the rain storm was unfavorable to a very large attendance, the hall was well filled. Dr. A. H. Vinton occupied the chair. The session was opened by the singing of the hymn commencing "I love Thy kingdom, Lord," and the usual form of prayer.

The Rev. Dr. Wilson read a paper on "The Mutual Christian Obligations of Capital and Labor."

PAPER BY DR. WASHBURNE.

Dr. Washburne read the first paper on the subject of the evening, "The Relation of this Church to other Christian Bodies." He said he hailed the Conference as a good omen for all the tokens of desires for unity. His preferences were for Protestantism, but he was quite sure that underneath the ground swell was God, who would bring all truth to the surface. (Cheers.) He sketched what the organic unity of the Church means. In the structure of the English Church there was a basis for union. This Church was Protestant to the core, but it kept the episcopate, the rich liturgy and its form of creeds. Not a trace could be found of the Anglo-Catholic system. He traced the growth of ecclesiastical opinion through the first ages of Christianity in England. He then proceeded to examine the Anglo-Catholic theory, which, he said, had been the growth of the last forty years, and which was only working in its own slow way through ritualism to a knowledge of its own errors. Instead of making the English Church a living Church it bound it indissolubly to the past. It was the fatal drift of these minds that they were bred in ecclesiastical followers instead of the race of thinkers. The Nicene theory, like the Roman, worshipped one age in its Catholicity. The Nicene symbol stands for only one stage of doctrinal opinion. All the theology of the Protestant Church, embracing the ethical and personal side of Christianity, is outside of the age of Nice. Anglican Christianity is like the Chinaman who made the map of the world with the Celestial Empire in the centre and all the other countries in the corners. (Cheers.) The true Church believes in the visible kingdom of God. Its unity lies in the worship of an incarnate God.

The Rev. E. Porter, of Wisconsin, read the second paper, on which he dealt with the relation of the Protestant Episcopal Church to other Protestant bodies as that of a learner and a teacher.

The Rev. C. G. Currie, of Pennsylvania, said that the Protestant Episcopal Church has not defined its relation to other churches. The time has not yet come when that definition can be made, and the time for legislating upon it has not fully come. The picture of the Church frequently drawn is that of a female more anxious about her own pedigree than the saving of souls. Though in a very tattered condition, as to modern clothing, she at least knows who she is. (Cheers and hisses.) That picture was true once, but it is not true now. She has trimmed her lamp and done good apostolic work.

The Rev. Dr. Osgood said that we were to remember the circumstances under which came the differences between the Protestant Episcopal Church and the secessionists. We are to seek to discover the differences and endeavor to obtain a certain cohesion. The Protestant Episcopal Church was not a bigoted or exclusive Church. What, then, is the idea of unity? There must be an evangelic platform in which is included a belief in the redeeming grace of God.

Bishop Whipple said he did not represent any party or any school in the Church. He believed that the divisions of the Church were eating the heart out of our religion. He did hold to an apostolic ministry and the divine ordinances, but this did not equal the declaration that the Church was as a bride adorned for her husband. There was a man who lives in New York and whose name he never heard without feelings of tenderness. It was Robert B. Minturn, whose life did more good than all the works of the organized Church. (Cheers.) The hope of the future is not in any school of thought in the Church of God. That divine prayer will be answered, that they all may be one in Thee; but it will be one when the heart beats in unison with the divine harmonies of a sanctified nature. (Applause.)

Dr. Vinton closed with a résumé of the work of the Conference, and said that it was said at the beginning by himself that the Congress was an experiment; it had now culminated in a success.

Dr. Thompson then moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Vinton, the chairman, after which the "Gloria in Excelsis" was sung, and Bishop Whipple pronounced the benediction.

THE BAPTIST MISSIONARY UNION.

The Annual Reports—Lecture of Dr. Fulton—General Business of the Association at the Berean Church.

Yesterday will long be remembered in the annals of the Baptist Church in this city as a remarkable day of pleasant religious intercourse among the scattered members of the Southern New York Baptist Association, and a season of renewed interest in the affairs of the holy mission appertaining to the Church. In the morning the services of the association at the Berean church were inaugurated with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Sampson, of Harlem, and in the early afternoon the Women's Mission Society occupied the church, transacting business connected with their labors, even beyond the hour set down for the meeting of the Missionary Union. At three o'clock, however, the male representatives of the Union were permitted to take their seats and the Moderator, Rev. J. Spencer Kennard, called the meeting to order, and read with excellent intonations the 997th hymn, which was sung by the congregation. After this exercise the Rev. Dr. Fulton delivered a very eloquent but decidedly radical address, entitled the "Concentration of Effort Necessary to Denominational Success."

The speaker said in order to concentrate effort in the holy work in which they were engaged consecration of heart was absolutely necessary. In this great world-centre men grow rich by driving sharp bargains, but in religion men grow great and noble by self-denial. A church member is not necessarily strong because he lives among thousands of his fellows, but by his individual and concentrated efforts. How do all the negroes in the South become Baptists? I will tell you. An old plantation hand was asked the reason, and he said:—"Massa! we'se Baptists 'cause we don't know how to be anything else." Men are afraid of being called bigoted, and instead of their efforts being directed in aid of their church they are frittered away in miscellaneous churches and charities until they are entirely out of God's pasture. "I drank in Baptism from my mother's breast," said the Doctor, "and was taught to be a Baptist at her knees, and I say God bless the Baptist motherhood of the past!" Power goes out when concentration is given to the work. We have too many people in Brooklyn. I believe in concentration of effort. God's great commission is written in the hearts of the Baptist preachers, and a man must be passionate and earnest in his mission.

The Committee on Obituaries read their report, which was followed by the reports of trustees, &c., all of which were adopted. The fourth annual report of the Missionary Union contains some interesting data, which may be given in a later notice.

In the evening the session commenced by the singing of the beautiful hymn, "Work, for the night is coming," which was followed by the reading of the Scriptures by Rev. P. L. Davies, and "The Results of the Year," eloquently summed up by Rev. R. S. MacArthur, the President of the Union. After remarks by Rev. Dr. Anderson on "Mission Work," and of Rev. J. F. Elder on "Mission Chapel Building," the meeting adjourned.

OBITUARY.

Rev. Thomas M. Eddy, D. D.

Almost in the vigor and prime of life, at an early hour yesterday morning, the Rev. Dr. Thomas M. Eddy, one of the most able and eloquent ministers in the Methodist Episcopal Church, died at his residence in this city, in the fifty-second year of his age. As a preacher, a platform speaker, debater and editor, he had few equals and no superiors. He had nearly completed thirty-two years of ministerial life, he having joined the Indiana Conference in 1842, and for twelve years he performed the duties of an itinerant minister in the West. In 1854 he was chosen agent of the American Bible Society, which position he held for one year, when he was chosen Presiding Elder of the Indianapolis district. In 1857 he was elected editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, which, under his able management, rapidly grew in favor. A series of able articles from his pen on infanticide were published in all the leading papers of this country and of England, and caused a stir in medical and ministerial circles. He devoted nearly twelve years to editorial work, when in 1868 he re-entered the pastorate in Baltimore, and under his care the fine Mount Vernon church of that city was projected. He was pastor of the Metropolitan church in Washington for three years and a delegate to the General Conference in Brooklyn. In 1872 he was chosen one of the secretaries of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, whose headquarters are in this city.

In the pursuit of his duties Dr. Eddy was called on to travel a great deal and to talk much to conferences and large gatherings of people, often in the open air. Overtaxed in mind and body he returned hither from the West on the 1st inst. and was immediately prostrated with a bilious attack. On Sunday last he was so low the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to him by Dr. Chapman, of St. Paul's church, and on Monday morning Bishop Janes, who was at his bedside, sent a request to the Preachers' meeting that prayer be offered to God for him. At five o'clock that evening he began to sink rapidly, and at four o'clock yesterday morning he died. His loss will be mourned by the entire Church which he loved and served so well. His funeral will take place from St. Paul's church on Friday afternoon.

TRIBUTE TO HIS MEMORY IN THE ROCK RIVER CONFERENCE.

STERLING, Ill., Oct. 7, 1874.

The Rock River annual Methodist Episcopal Conference, in session here, was profoundly stirred to-day when Bishop Bowman announced the death of Dr. Thomas M. Eddy. The Conference is one of the largest in the West, and was Dr. Eddy's home for twelve years. All the older members bore strong personal attachments to him, and his sudden death made an impression seldom seen. Dr. John M. Reid, one of the missionary secretaries, was present, and was the first to break the silence. He feared this blow; he knew that his colleague was working too hard; but Dr. Eddy was the last man to complain. A was ordered for to-morrow, when Dr. Hitchcock, Bishop Bowman and Dr. Reid will deliver addresses. This will be an important meeting. The following was sent to Mrs. Eddy:—

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The Rock River Annual Conference received the sad intelligence of the death of our loved and honored brother, Dr. Eddy, with tears and signs of universal sorrow. Prayer was offered for yourself and children. We profoundly sympathize with you in this unmeasured sorrow, and commend you to God's supporting grace.

CHARLES A. FOWLER,
S. A. W. JEWITT, } Committee.
EZRA M. BARRING,

James Gardner.

The above named gentleman, lately of the house of Hoyt and Gardner, of New York, and for many years a newspaper editor and proprietor in Georgia, died in Augusta, Ga., yesterday, aged sixty-two years.

DARING BANK ROBBERY.

Shortly after twelve o'clock, noon, yesterday, a well dressed young man entered the Manufacturers' National Bank on Broadway, near Second street, Brooklyn, E. D., and while a confederate engaged the cashier in conversation he jumped up on the counter and reaching over the railing snatched a package of greenbacks and, jumping down, started on a run for the door. He was seen, however, and a cry of "stop thief!" was raised immediately. The cashier, Mr. T. C. Disbrow, and his brother ran after the thief, who crossed Broadway to Third street, and entering a liquor saloon on the corner passed out at a side door, only to be caught, however, by Mr. Henry Disbrow, who held him until Officers Langridge and Short took charge of him. The money was found inside of his coat, and amounted to $483. At the station house he gave his name as John Rourke, aged thirty years, and residing at 229 Broome street, New York. He is evidently an old hand at the business, is well dressed, and sports a gold watch and chain and diamond shirt studs.

M. ROCHEFORT'S HOTEL TROUBLES.

The Domestic Pester of Political Notoriety on the Continent.

A letter from Geneva of the 22d of September to Paris, which might be headed "The Misfortunes of Rochefort," reads thus:—

The "Lanternier" has had no luck during his stay here. He alighted, on arriving, at the Hôtel de Russie, but after two days, the goings and comings of the Razouas, Gaillards, father and son, Arnoulds, with their long beards and slouched hats, who took a pleasure in pestering Rochefort, ended in disgusting the master of the house, who gave his guest notice to quit. Nor did the traveller remain much longer at the Hôtel des Bergues, his next place of refuge. As the proprietor was approaching him with a serious air, Rochefort did not allow him to speak. "I understand," said he, "that I trouble you here and that you give me warning." At the Ecu de Genève he stayed four days, but at the end of that time a numerous English family arrived, and, having met the editor of the Lanterne on the staircase, the father said to the hotelkeeper, "You have M. Rochefort here?" and immediately gave orders for the luggage to be carried away. The master of the house rushed forward and assured him that the objectionable guest should instantly depart. The fourth station was the Hôtel du Lac, where he remained until his departure for Vevey. At the latter place he came plump against Prince Napoleon (Jerome). He did not meet with much sympathy in the streets of Geneva, and was even hooted.

Died.

KNAPP.—On Tuesday, October 6, ANNA MARIA FRANCIS, relict of Joshua Knapp, in the 80th year of her age.

Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend the funeral, without further notice, from her late residence, No. 483 Third street, Brooklyn, at two o'clock on Friday afternoon.

Maritime Miscellany.

Ship Andes (Br), at San Francisco 29th ult from Sunderland, reports:—July 6, lat 39 S, lon 52 41 W, at 7:30 AM, William English was washed from the jibboom, sinking immediately, there being too much sea at the time to put out a boat to render assistance.

Bark Vale of Nith (Br), at San Francisco 29th ult from Liverpool, had a heavy gale from WSW from July 7 to the 10th; a very heavy sea struck the ship on the starboard bow, smashing lifeboat, house doors, coming aft and taking away cuddy doors, top of companion and doors, washing the man from the wheel and knocking several other articles about deck to pieces.

Brig Emily Waters (Br), Morrissey, from Liverpool for Galveston, with salt, which went ashore near San Luis Pass, at the west end of the island, some weeks since, has been gotten afloat, and was towed into Galveston, October 2, by the steamtug Buckthorn. The spars and rigging of the vessel had been sent down and taken off before she was floated. The steam pump which is on board keeps the vessel free of water without difficulty.

Brig Etna (Br), from St John for Matanzas (with lumber), was abandoned Sept 12, in lat 36 40, lon 52 20; crew saved by bark Electa and transferred to bark Ophir, for Savannah. The vessel was insured for $8,000; cargo for $600.

Schr J. Clark, of Providence, at Fall River from Philadelphia, has been got off the rock, pumped out, and will go on the marine railway for repairs.

Schr Sarah, Varnum, from Bangor for Boston, put into Herring Gut 1st inst, leaking 1000 strokes per hour; obliged to haul out on railway for repairs; found the leak in garboard seam. All ready for sea again.

Schr Gettysburg, which sunk in the late storm at Charleston, still lies at Marsh's wharf submerged. The dredge Josephine was lying beside her, and was to make an effort on the 4th inst to raise her with the aid of powerful pumps.

Schr Wave, bound to North Carolina, previously reported on fire at Norfolk, was subsequently scuttled, after about one-half the cargo was taken out. The crew were endeavoring to fish up some of the dry goods from cases on the 5th, which appeared pretty well scorched about the ends of the webs. The damage sustained will be considerable.

Schr War Eagle, France, at Bath Oct 5 from Boston, put into Booth bay for repairs, having touched lightly on the Sugar Loaves on her passage.

Schr Annie Edith, Lyons, from Wilmington, NC, for Philadelphia, which went ashore at Beaufort, and was subsequently got off, reported not much damaged, put into Norfolk, Oct 5 in a leaky condition.

Sloop Mary Grey, of Mystic, went ashore near Stonybrook, LI, night of 29th ult, where she now lies. It is expected she may be got off.

Norfolk, Oct 5—Capt Shelley, who arrived here Sunday morning from Baltimore, reports having passed near Sandy Point a schooner capsized and keel completely up. She appeared to have gone over with all sails set, and had a yawl boat floating astern. The name could not be ascertained, but it is thought that the crew must have been all saved.

The schr Controller, Captain Lloyd, loaded with molasses, went ashore at Henry Bay and is a total wreck. The crew were saved.

Portsmouth, NH, Oct 6—Schr Jane, of this port, was run into near the shoals on Sunday, and had her bowsprit carried away.

Shipbuilding—At Thomaston, Messrs Creighton, Mills & Co will be ready to launch their fine ship in a week or two, and Edward O'Brien will launch his ship in a few days. Mr O'Brien's ship is named the Eleda, and will be sailed by Capt Frank Mehan. Stinson, Gerry & Co have a bark in frame.

Notice to Mariners.

Washington, Oct 7—Notice is given by the Light House Board that a spile platform is being built to aid in the construction of a light house on Ship John Shoal. It will be about 3½ miles S by W from the Cohansey light house and in about 8 feet of water at low tide. When the weather will permit it will be marked by a red light. As the light cannot always be depended on vessels should keep in the main ship channel.

Also, that a heap of stones is about being placed on the lower end of Cross Ledge Shoal, to serve as a foundation for a lighthouse. It is about one and a half miles NNE of Cross Ledge Lightship, Egg Island bearing about E by N, and Mahon's River Light W by N. Until the lighthouse is completed this will be a dangerous obstruction, and passing vessels should therefore keep well toward the middle of the main ship channel.

MALAY PENINSULA—MALACCA STRAIT—NORTH AND SOUTH SANDS—ALTERATION IN LIGHT AT ONE FATHOM BANK.

The Master Attendant of Singapore has given notice that on the 15th of May, 1874, the following alteration was made in the light at One Fathom Bank, viz.:—

The light vessel moored off One Fathom Bank was removed, and that from a screw iron pile light tower which has been placed on the bank in 15 feet water, half a mile S by E from the position previously occupied by the light vessel, a light was exhibited.

The light is a revolving white light, attaining its greatest brilliancy every minute; it is elevated 61 feet above the level of the sea, and in clear weather should be seen from a distance of 13 miles.

The light tower is painted in belts of lead and slate color.

Position, lat 2 52 8 N, lon 200 59 2 E.

A red buoy is moored in 14 feet at the north end of One Fathom bank.

NORTH SEA—RIVER EMS—INTENDED REVOLVING FLASH LIGHT NORDERNEY ISLAND.

The German government has given notice that from the 1st day of October, 1874, a light will be exhibited from a lighthouse recently erected on Norderney Island, near the eastern entrance of the River Ems.

This light will be a revolving white light, showing a flash at intervals of 10 seconds, elevated 195 feet above the level of high water, and in clear weather should be seen from a distance of 20 miles.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric or by lenses of the first order.

The height of the lighthouse from base to the top of the lantern is 175 feet.

The base of the lighthouse is 38 feet above high water.

Position as given, lat 53 deg 42 min 49 sec N, lon, 7 deg 13 min 40 sec W.

By command of their lordships.
